LEAGUE WOMEN TO SETTLE MANCHURIAN DISPUTE

Australians May Vote On Abolition of Legislatures

Federal Ministry Of Australia May Get Wide Powers

Premier Scullin Considers Referendum on Transformation of Constitution; Provincial Councils Would Operate in Restricted Fields

Canadian Press
Sydney, N.S.W., Oct. 12.—Premier Scullin is reported to be considering an early referendum on reorganization of the Australian constitution.

The changes would solidify the powers of the federal government, delegate purely local powers to provincial councils and grant the federal government power to alter the constitution at will.

New York, Oct. 12.—A special cable from Canberra, Australia, to The New York Times to-day said:

"The fate of the six Australian state parliaments will be settled by a referendum which the federal government has announced it proposes to take after Christmas."

"Premier Scullin declared the federal government would seek power to give effect to a plan for the unification of Australia, with complete sovereign powers for the federal parliament, abolition of the state legislatures and delegation of authority in local matters to provincial councils in local governing areas. The people, he said, would also be asked to give the central parliament, which would then be the only parliament, the right to alter the constitution at will."

"The Commonwealth of Australia was constituted under an act passed by the British Parliament in 1900 which provided that the people of New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, Queensland and Tasmania, having agreed thereto, the Commonwealth should be proclaimed January 1, 1901. Western Australia, which in the meantime had agreed, was also included at that time."

"The present constitution leaves to the several states a great deal of their original powers. The method provided for alteration of the constitution requires that changes are to be proposed by a majority in each house of the federal parliament and then submitted directly to the people."

"Their adoption requires the approval of a majority of the voters in a majority of the states, which must also constitute a majority of all votes in the Commonwealth of Australia."

SEEK REMOVAL OF ESQUIMALT BEER PARLORS

Petition, Signed By Over Thirty-five Per Cent of Residents, Filed

British Columbia Cabinet Expected to Give Its Decision in Matter Shortly

The fight of a strong faction in Esquimalt seeking the abolition of beer parlors in that municipality has advanced another step. A petition, signed by over thirty-five per cent of the residents, the number required by statute before a plebiscite can be granted, was filed with the government last week and is being checked by the deputy provincial secretary's department.

After being given further consideration to ensure its legality, the plebiscite will be placed before the executive council, which will determine whether or not the plebiscite will be allowed.

Shortly after Victoria turned down by an overwhelming majority the plebiscite which would have permitted the sale of beer by the glass in that city, the people of Esquimalt decided to do something about their beer parlors.

In addition to the temperance element in the district, largely made up of church supporters, many residents would like to see the beer parlors removed, on the grounds that they have caused a depreciation in some property values.

Although promised the support of the Victoria Citizens' Committee, the body which organized the fight against the introduction of parlors in the city, the Esquimalt people in charge of the petition operated quietly without outside assistance.

STARTS LIFE ANEW AFTER PRISON TERM

ASA KEYES

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—Starting life over again at the age of fifty-four, Asa Keyes, former Los Angeles district attorney, was a free man to-day after a year and a half in prison. When he left San Quentin penitentiary yesterday he had $60 in his pocket.

Keyes entered the prison nineteen months ago to serve a one-to-four-year term for bribery in connection with the prosecution of the Julian Petroleum fraud cases. His time was fixed at five years and because of good behavior he had to serve less than half of it. He will be on parole for eighteen months in the Los Angeles county jail pending appeal of his case.

The former prosecutor left the prison in better physical condition than when he entered. Regular hours, plain food, no liquor and exercise were credited with the physical improvement.

Claims Autos May Soon Run On Air

Los Angeles, Oct. 12.—Roy J. Meyers, inventor, to-day predicted motorists soon might refill their tanks with air instead of gasoline.

Meyers demonstrated an automobile, with a six-cylinder radial type engine, minus the usual carburetor and ignition and cooling systems, but equipped with a compressed air tank, filled to 500 pounds pressure.

He pulled a lever and the car picked up speed quickly and smoothly, with a slight hiss of air from the exhaust valves.

Japanese Want Direct Negotiations, But China Asks Geneva Declaration

League Council is Asked by Sze to Direct Immediate Withdrawal of Japanese Troops From Manchuria; Yoshizawa Tells Delegates No State of War Exists, But His Government is Taking Measures of Precaution

Geneva, Oct. 12.—The League of Nations Council heard both sides of the Sino-Japanese conflict in Manchuria to-day and adjourned its extraordinary session until to-morrow or later without taking action.

Dr. Alfred Sze, representing China, demanded the League act against what he called Japanese military aggression, not only in the interests of peace in Manchuria, but on the grounds that "unless we can co-operate in this grave emergency, we shall fail to instill any confidence in international security and order."

He demanded the League direct immediate withdrawal of Japanese troops from Manchuria.

Kenkichi Yoshizawa, the Japanese spokesman, insisted on continued direct negotiations with China, and disavowed his government's responsibility for the Manchurian troubles.

At the opening sitting this forenoon, Aristide Briand, Foreign Minister of France, acting as chairman, reviewed the events which led up to the conflict and recalled the promises of both parties not to aggravate the situation.

He said the Council's hope for a specific settlement unhappily had not been realized.

WORLD PEACE INVOLVED
Dr. Sze declared in an emotional appeal for the League's intervention, that the entire edifice of world peace would collapse if the League should fail to settle the controversy.

The Chinese attitude had been calm and loyal while awaiting the League's work of justice and peace, he said in English. He invoked the covenant and the Kellogg Pact and declared security and disarmament would crash if the League should fail to perform its duty.

"I speak to you now under the strain of deep emotion," said Dr. Sze, "and to avoid using any impulsive expressions which would embitter this situation, I will read what I have to say to you."

BOMBING REPORTED
China, he went on, had observed the instructions of the League Council, but "Japanese troops not only have not been withdrawn, but there have been further acts of aggression and violence culminating in the bombing of Chinchow by twelve Japanese airplanes."

He emphasized China's demand for immediate withdrawal of Japanese forces from Manchuria and mentioned certain wider issues, he asserted China had maintained its loyalty to the League while "unhappy results" were to be avoided.

While he spoke, the diminutive M. Toshiyama, Japan's representative, sat in the foreground on the other side of the Council table.

"When our territory was suddenly invaded on a vast scale, our towns laid waste and our peaceful citizens done to death, what was our reply?" asked Dr. Sze.

MARKET WILL GOVERN USE OF WHALERS

Wm. Schupp, President of Consolidated Whaling Corporation, Here

Fleet Will Be Operated Next Season If Price of Whale Oil Goes Up

After a season of inactivity the Victoria whaling fleet will be sent to sea next spring, providing the whale oil market rights itself, it was announced this morning by William Schupp, Bellevue, Wash., president of the Consolidated Whaling Corporation and the American-Pacific Whaling Company, who registered at the Empress Hotel yesterday and left this afternoon for Seattle.

The price of whale oil was down so low this year that it would not pay the company to operate the boats, Mr. Schupp said.

The market will probably show an improvement by next season and if it does we shall do our part to get the whaling fleet back into commission. If we had operated this year it would have meant a serious loss to us."

STILL DOWN
"How's the whale oil market now?" he was asked.

"It's still down, but there is every likelihood of an improvement before next season. If we are given any inducement to operate, we can be relied upon to send the fleet to sea."

Mr. Schupp has been conferring with Capt. George LeMarquand, manager of the Consolidated Whaling Corporation, and inspected the plant and vessels at Point Elliot.

The steam whalers are being kept in shape and during the winter months the engines of the vessels will be overhauled so that they will be ready for the opening of the season next May, should the price of whale oil become more stable.

The stations maintained by the company are located at Rose Harbor and Naden Harbor, Queen Charlotte Islands.

The fleet of the American-Pacific Whaling Company, operating out of Seattle, will next season be operated off the Aleutians.

PROVINCIAL WREATHS ON WAR MEMORIALS SUGGESTED

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—All the provincial governments have been asked by Major John S. Roper, Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, to place a poppy wreath on each of the war memorials in their respective provinces on November 11, National Remembrance Day.

Major Roper, who was in Ottawa over the week-end, sent the following telegram to each provincial premier: "On the occasion of the first National Remembrance Day in Canada, November 11, the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League asks all provincial governments undertake the responsibility of placing on all memorials in their respective provinces a poppy wreath, manufactured by disabled soldiers in Veterans' shops operated under the direction of the Department of Pensions and Health and distributed by the Canadian Legion. This token of respect to the dead is already in effect in at least one province in Canada (Nova Scotia). The Dominion Parliament has made November 11 a day of sacred memories. Will you co-operate?"

JUDGE ORDERS POON ACQUITTED

Crown Withdraws Embezzlement Charge Against Manager of Chinese Newspaper

Directed by Mr. Justice Murphy, a verdict of not guilty was returned this morning by the Assize Court jury trying Harold Poon on a charge of embezzling over $4,700 from The New Republic, Chinese daily newspaper.

Gordon A. Cameron, crown prosecutor, informed the court that, in view of publication of a letter in The New Republic, to the effect that collection of the debt was being made through the court, it had been made to the criminal courts to collect funds. As such proceedings could not be permitted, the crown requested the jury be instructed to acquit. His lordship agreed and turning to the jury said: "Mr. Foreman, I instruct you to report the accused not guilty."

The trial of Chen Yen on a charge of embezzling over $4,700 from The New Republic, Chinese daily newspaper, was continued to-day.

DOLLAR FALLS TWO CENTS IN DEALS IN U.S.

New York, Oct. 12.—Slumping two points below the previous close, the Canadian dollar closed at 89 cents in United States funds on the local foreign-exchange market to-day. This figure represents a discount rate of 11 per cent.

Following its display of strength last Saturday, the dollar's weakness was unexpected. Saturday the Dominion's currency opened at 90½ and firmed to 91. To-day it opened at 90½, dropped to 90 at noon and then continued down to the day's lowest figure.

Lines Drawn More Sharply As Parties Swing Toward General Election Date

Nominations Will Be Held on Friday of This Week

By GEORGE HAMBLETON

London, Oct. 12.—In the swiftly-changing picture of this most confused of British general elections two clear issues are emerging:

(1) A fundamental battle with Socialism itself.

(2) The establishment of protective tariffs.

The "danger" of the return of the Socialists rings from a thousand government platforms up and down the land. It is the main theme of the Conservative and National Liberal platforms which are every day eliminating more and more perilous three-cornered fights.

Nominations are only three days away—Friday—and the polling will take place on October 27, two weeks from to-day.

THREE SCOTTISH M.P.'S ELECTED

They are John Buchan, Conservative; D. M. Cowan, Liberal and A. N. Skelton, Conservative.

SMASH WINDOW, STEAL WATCHES

Jeweler's Store Front Broken By Thief Early This Morning

Naval Veterans' Club Entered and Cash Stolen

Six watches with a total value of about $240 were stolen from the jewelry store of F. W. Francis, 1629 Douglas Street, early this morning by a robber who smashed a plate glass window to make the theft.

The robbery was discovered at 5.30 o'clock this morning by E. Woberton, 860 Queen's Avenue, who was passing the store and noticed the broken window. Detectives who investigated fixed the time of the theft at between 4 and 5.30 o'clock as the store was inspected periodically during the night by the policemen on their beats. The store is half a block from police headquarters.

That the thief was acquainted with the type of loot he was after was indicated by the fact that he took only watches of value and spurned a number of cheaper timepieces in the window. Two of the articles stolen were valued at $50, one at $45, two at $35 and one at $25.

Whether a rock or some other heavy instrument was used to break the window has not been determined. No trace of such an implement has been found.

WILLIAM BOYD GOES FISHING HERE TO-DAY

Screen Star and Party Spend Enjoyable Day Hooking Salmon in Saanich Inlet

One of the most ardent fishermen who ever fished in Saanich Inlet for big salmon is William Boyd, noted screen star, who took his party out trolling to-day from Moodyville. William Boyd's fishing party was made up of his wife, known to movie fans as Dorothy Sebastian, and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Cummings of Los Angeles, with Bill Thorne piloting the launch.

In a sixteen-cylinder two-tone blue Cadillac car, the motion picture celebrities reached Victoria yesterday afternoon from Los Angeles.

SET OUT EARLY
After an early breakfast this morning the party left the Empress Hotel, where they are staying while in the city, for Moodyville to enjoy a real fishing day on the famous inlet where fighting salmon are to be caught.

It is not the first time William Boyd has visited Victoria and he knows something of the fish that are to be hooked in these waters.

"We came here to land some of your famous fish and are not wasting any time in going after them," said Mr. Boyd, as he jumped into the car to drive out to Brentwood. "Bill Thorne has promised to give us some real fishing and we look for a good day baiting some of the big fellows."

Mr. Boyd recently completed "Suicide Fleet," a talkie produced by R.K.O. while Dorothy Sebastian has just completed "Unwanted," for Columbia Pictures, Inc. Mr. Cummings is a playwright and his wife is known to the screen as Lola Ray. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd said they were delighted to be in Victoria again.

"Our scenery here is unsurpassable and there is no question in my mind that there are possibilities on this island for motion picture production," said Mr. Boyd.

On the completion of the fishing expedition the party will motor back to southern California, as Mr. Boyd is under contract to appear in the R.K.O. film "Timber Beasts," which deals with lumbering operations in the northwest.

Prediction Made Farm Board Will Cost the U.S. Taxpayers $300,000,000

Grain and Feed Dealers' Association, Meeting in Texas, Hears A. Howard, Winnipeg Grain Man

Associated Press

Houston, Texas, Oct. 13.—Aster Howard, Winnipeg grain man, declared to-day "the Canadian wheat pool had cost farmers of western Canada not less than $100,000,000."

He predicted the "Farm Board experiment will cost taxpayers of the United States not less than $300,000,000."

Howard addressed the annual convention of the National Grain and Feed Dealers' Association.

"The wheat pool operated in Canada eight years and in not a single year did the pool farmer receive as much for his wheat as the non-pool farmer," Howard declared.

"Not only that, but the pool farmer only received about two-thirds of the value of his wheat when he marketed it, and 140,000 farmers in western Canada are still waiting for the other one-third of the 1928 crop and all the crops they have marketed since."

"The Canadian pool used printer's ink, the radio and the platform for eight years to denounce the system to which the farmer and the dealer are now returned."

"The Farm Board in this country undertook to eliminate speculation and they became the greatest speculative force that ever operated in grain and wheat. They undertook to stabilize the ocean waves. They prevented surpluses by increasing surpluses. They made orderly marketing disorderly."

The reply, he said, was in the form of three executive proclamations calling on the Chinese to remain calm and await the League's action.

"The covenant and the Kellogg Pact are our two sheet anchors to which we have moored our ship of state," he said, "and with the help of these we believe we shall be able to stabilize the situation."

"But the covenant and pact are also the cornerstones of a world-wide edifice of peace and if they crumble that edifice collapses."

Would it be likely that nations who had witnessed this tragic collapse of the covenant and pact at the first great test would assemble quietly at Geneva in February to disarm?" he asked. "Would they not rather draw the conclusion that after all each state must rely on its own armed forces and on that alone?"

QUESTION OF SECURITY

"As with the idea of disarmament goes the whole idea of international security," he said, "for the two are indissolubly linked. If we fail now, when America offers her co-operation, and fail to secure the League's action, what chance have we of working out some form of permanent association, some provision for a conference under the Kellogg Pact to avert threats to peace?"

ALL ARE INTERESTED

"However remote and irrelevant this question may seem to the West, engrossed in its pressing cares, the web of fate binds us all together and unless we can co-operate effectively in a grave emergency, we shall fall in disarmament, we shall fall to instill any confidence in international security and order, and by the same token we shall fall to grapple with the most serious economic crisis."

"China has put herself in the hands of the League and abides the issues with confidence in her destiny and in the moral forces of civilization. The League cannot fail for its success is bound up with the interests of all civilized nations—with that of Japan and America, as well as that of China and other members of the League."

DIRECT NEGOTIATIONS

M. Yoshikawa, representing Japan, presented his side of the case when the Council reconvened after luncheon. Japan insisted on direct negotiations with China, he told his colleagues. An official note from his government indicated its military operations in Manchuria were at a standstill.

Operations of Japanese troops, he said, had been for the protection of Koreans and Japanese against the "robber mandate."

He said the bombardment of Chin-chow was in retaliation for a Chinese attack on Japanese planes. The planes had been dispatched to Chin-chow on a reconnaissance when it was reported Chinese soldiers were assembling there along the South Manchurian Railway.

MEASURES OF PRECAUTION

"It is clear no state of war exists," said a note from his government, which he read to the Council, "but Japanese troops will take careful measures of precaution."

It was incorrect to say the situation was aggravated, the note read, as "in the face of anti-Japanese agitation by the Japanese population and the property forborne rapid evacuation of troops, the note went on, but the Japanese Government was ready to discuss with Chinese representatives 'concrete fundamental points necessary for the maintenance of normal relations.'"

LORD READING ATTENDS

In acting as chairman to-day M. Briand was substituting for Foreign Minister Alexandre Larroux of Spain, who was unable to be present to occupy his post as president of the Council. Lord Reading was representing Great Britain and Dino Grandi was the delegate for Italy. Other nations represented were Germany, Poland, Spain and Yugoslavia.

REPLY FROM CHINA

Nanking, China, Oct. 13.—Pending action by the League of Nations Council in the Sino-Japanese dispute, China to-day answered the Tokyo government's recent demand for the suppression of anti-Japanese demonstrations in this country.

The reply was handed to Japanese Consul Uyemura, in the absence of Minister Shigenatsu, who left here this morning for Shanghai on board a Japanese warship.

High official quarters disclosed to-day Chinese reply to Japan's warning against anti-Japanese demonstrations reiterated that the Japanese invasion of southern Manchuria was a violation of international agreements and contended the occupation constituted a state of war.

JAPAN IGNORES REQUEST

The Chinese reply contended that both the Chinese and Japanese governments, being members of the League and signatories to the Kellogg Pact renouncing war, should seek a peaceful solution of the disputes, but that the League had asked Japan to withdraw her troops from Manchuria and Japan not only refused to do so, but also represented as stating the Chinese government never had offered armed resistance and had in check, protected Japanese lives and property and fulfilled its promises to the League.

The Chinese government says there at present are twenty-five Japanese warships on the Yangtze River.

MANY JAPANESE LEAVE

Nanking, China, Oct. 13.—The wholesale evacuation of Japanese from Szechwan Province continued to-day owing to hostile demonstrations.

The Japanese consulate at Chungking, provincial capital, was closed and the consul and other Japanese residents were en route to Chungking, a Yangtze River city six days' journey away.

Japanese residents took refuge aboard steamers from their country lying in port.

RECLAMATION PLAN DEBATED

A.F. of L. Delegates at Convention in Vancouver Consider Columbia Basin

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Oct. 13.—Organized labor's opposition to the government project in the United States hereafter will be dependent on guarantees that union standards will be maintained, the American Federation of Labor delegates at their annual convention to-day declared.

Relief of unemployment is one of the principal problems being discussed at the A.F.'s fifty-first annual convention, but the federation does not wish to issue blanket endorsement of projects on which labor may be employed at wages below union standards.

COLUMBIA SCHEME

Labor's new stand was brought out in its action on a resolution asking Congress to begin construction of the Columbia Basin reclamation project, involving 1,500,000 acres of arid but rich soil in central Washington. Without debate, the convention referred the resolution to the executive council with power to endorse the project if assurances are given that wages and working conditions will be satisfactory.

Widespread charge of low wages and bad working conditions at Boulder Dam, where the federation on endorsement of projects just to create work, I. M. Ornum, chairman of the legislative committee, intimated.

Resolutions opposing fingerprinting of government employees and restricting the federation's stand on higher employment standards in government service also were adopted without discussion.

A sharp discussion, the convention adopted a minority report which placed the federation on record as definitely opposing a classification law which would affect mechanical trades in government employ. The vote was 140 in favor of the minority report and fifty against it, automatically killing the majority report asking further study of the proposed legislation by the executive council.

BENNETT TO-DAY IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 13.—Formally opening his home of the Canadian Club of New York, Premier Bennett will speak at a banquet here to-day. After being honored with a degree of Doctor of Laws at the centennial celebration of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., Premier Bennett is on his way back to the Canadian capital by way of New York.

Hon. J. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, is also here for the occasion.

SAFEGUARDS DESIRED

On the other hand, Baron Shidehara was quoted as saying that rights and interests as well as the lives and property of Japanese nationals, the Tokyo government first must be safeguarded.

Baron Shidehara was said to have emphasized his view that the two countries should lay down the basic policies relative to peaceful settlement at the earliest possible moment.

Chang communicated the result of the conference to Nanking.

SPAIN HAS NO STATE RELIGION

National Assembly Decides Question on Vote After Debate

Madrid, Oct. 13.—The National Assembly to-night rejected the Roman Catholic religion as the religion of the state.

By a vote of 267 to 41 the Assemblymen approved article 3 of the new republican constitution, which states "no state religion."

By this decision, when the constitution is finally enacted, centuries of official Roman Catholic worship in Spain will end.

There has been conflict between the church and the state of Spain since the fall of King Alfonso XIII.

It came to a head several months ago with riots and burning of church property, disturbances which were attributed in some quarters to a passion for religious fanaticism.

Segura Y Saenz, then Prime Minister of Spain, in which the people were urged to vote in the first republican general election.

Government to get rid in fourteen years of the frightful mass of poverty, ignorance and dirt left by capitalism. But this is a possibility must be found to create clear and honest relationships and feelings between neighbors.

"Germany, while fully appreciating the vital necessities of her neighbors, demands the realization of the principle of justice and equality among nations."

After reading of the government's declaration, which was applauded by the middle parties while the Social Democrats remained silent, the Reichstag adjourned until to-morrow.

RUSSIA NOT PARADISE, BUT PEOPLE HOPING, SAYS SHAW

London, Oct. 13.—In a speech here Sunday, George Bernard Shaw defended Communism and the Soviet government in Russia, which he recently visited.

"Russia has us fooled, beaten, shamed, shown up, outpointed and all but knocked out," the Irish philosopher and playwright asserted.

Shaw compared the overthrow of the Czarist regime in 1917 with the American revolution. Describing what travelers to Russia would see, he said: "You must not expect a paradise. Russia is too big a place for any gov-election for candidates who would defend the interests of the church.

When antagonism against him became even stronger the cardinal left Spain and conferred with his superiors at Vatican City. Later he was formally expelled by the republican government, and recently he was re-elected as Primate of Spain by the Pope.

In recent weeks the cardinal has been centered principally about the issue of the church and state.

DOZEN BLASTS SHAKE TOWN AS ROBBERS WORK

Two Auto Loads of Bank Thugs Shoot Up Lizton, Indiana; Take $3,800

Associated Press

Lizton, Ind., Oct. 13.—Two automobile loads of bandits early to-day isolated this town from communication, wrecked the State Bank Building with a dozen blasts of nitro-glycerin, shot up the town and escaped with more than $2,000 in currency and negotiable securities amounting to more than $1,800.

Scores of shells from shotguns, revolvers and other firearms were found scattered through the streets in the business section.

Marion Bailey, seventy-two, president of the bank, who lives across the street from the institution and who was awakened by the explosions, engaged in a gun fight with a bandit stationed in front of the bank.

The latter, crouched behind a barricade of benches, emptied several revolvers at the Bailey home. One of the bullets barely missed James Young, Bailey's son-in-law, who was sleeping in an upstairs room.

The robbers had timed the attack with the passage of a freight train through here, starting with a few low speed blasts. After they found residents had been awakened, they sped up their blasting of the safe, grabbed up the money and fled, firing several volleys.

DEFENCE TO BE HEARD IN CAPONE CASE

Chicago Judge Rules Out Motion For Directed Verdict

Former Gambling Cashier Witness To-day

Associated Press

Federal Building, Chicago, Oct. 13.—The government completed its testimony to-day in the income tax case against Alphonse Capone, Chicago gang leader.

The prosecution, which charges the big gangster with evasion of tax on a six-year income of $1,035,000, rested after a handwriting expert had testified signatures on telegraphic money orders and other government exhibits were written by the defendant.

John Torrio, former Chicago gang boss, who appeared before the grand jury investigating the case and who was subpoenaed as a witness for the defense, was not called to the witness stand.

A few minutes after the start of the afternoon session, grey-haired George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney, arose and made one of his few utterances of the trial. "Your Honor, the government rests," he said slowly.

Defense Attorney Michael Ahern announced he would ask for a directed verdict, adding "but I suppose you want no argument on that."

"I am willing to hear such a motion," replied Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Ahern repeated he needed time, saying: "Perhaps we will bring some witnesses from New York."

New Governor Calls Out Troops Against Old

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 13.—The Baton Rouge unit of the Louisiana National Guard was ordered out at 2:45 p.m. to-day, shortly after Lieutenant-Governor Paul N. Cyr had taken the oath as governor at Shreveport, to challenge the right of Governor Huey P. Long to continue as chief executive.

Governor Long, after being apprised of Cyr's action, left New Orleans hurriedly by automobile and sped toward the capital.

The National Guard unit, infantry company A, consisting of about 50 men, was ordered to assemble on the Community Club grounds, in the centre of the city.

GIRL HURT WHEN AUTO DITCHED

New Westminster, Oct. 13.—Suffering from a fracture of the skull, Ethel Laing, twenty-two, of Langley, B.C., is in the Royal Columbian Hospital here in a serious condition as the result of an automobile accident on the Yale Road, near Langley, B.C.

Vancouver, Oct. 13.—Keith Buchanan, twenty-eight, son of R. C. Buchanan, Laurier Avenue, manager of the Royal Security Corporation, died here in the Vancouver General Hospital at noon Sunday after a week's illness. He is survived by a widow and his parents.

FARM WORKER IS KILLED BY AUTO

Cloverdale, B.C., Oct. 13.—John Linn, fifty, employed on the farm of J. Livingston, Pacific Highway, near Fry's Corner, was knocked down and killed Sunday evening as he was walking from the barn to the house on the Pacific Highway. He lived only a few minutes after being struck.

Police report Linn was struck by an automobile, the car traveling south and in the same direction as the man was walking. He had been proceeding on the left side of the highway and then crossed over, walking into the side of the car.

CHANG MOVES HIS TROOPS OUT OF MANCHURIA

Chinese General Withdraws Army to Point South of Great Wall

Associated Press

Tokio, Oct. 13.—Military reports from Mukden to-day said the Chinese troops of Chang Hsueh-liang were withdrawing from Manchuria, his domain, to a point south of the Great Wall in the face of a "strict warning" from Japan against any possible repetition of a clash with Japanese forces of occupation.

The warning reportedly stated that in the event of another attack similar to that at Chin-chow, where Chinese troops allegedly fired on Japanese airplanes and forced them to bomb the city as a defensive measure, "the responsibility for the aftermath rests entirely on the Chinese."

Reports said the warning was sent to Chang Hsueh-liang, Generalissimo of Manchuria, by the Japanese Foreign Ministry.

In moving to a point south of the Great Wall of China, General Chang apparently has been pushed entirely out of Manchuria, where he had ruled under the auspices of the Chinese Nationalist government, until the recent occupation by the Japanese of southern Manchuria.

OUTLOOK FOR NEGOTIATIONS

In Tokyo yesterday the way was opened toward possible peace negotiations between Chinese and Japanese officials.

Chang Tso-pin, Chinese Minister to Japan, and Baron Shidehara, Japanese Foreign Minister, conferred about three hours. It was understood Baron Shidehara outlined certain principles which Japan felt should be agreed on prior to the opening of negotiations for adjustment of the Manchurian trouble.

These principles were said to have contemplated the pacification of Japanese national feeling and might lead to the evacuation of Chinese territory by Japanese troops. Conferences may be held Wednesday.

CONFERENCE IN SHANGHAI OCT. 21

Institute of Pacific Relations Brings Japanese and Chinese Delegates Together

Associated Press

Shanghai, Oct. 13.—The Pacific Council, governing body of the Institute of Pacific Relations, to-day definitely abandoned plans to hold a modified institute conference in Hangchow, but decided to attempt a full conference programme in Shanghai, opening probably October 21.

The council on October 2 announced a revision of its plans for the meeting after Japanese members had given notice of their inability to participate in the fourth biennial conference of the institute because of strained relations between Japan and China over the Manchurian situation.

At that time, Jerome D. Greenwood, New York chairman, said the council had voted to "proceed for arrangement of the conference, but in modified form, emphasizing the scientific aspects of the institute's work." He did not say whether the meeting would be held at Hangchow, location of the proposed original conference, or Shanghai.

MacDonald Is Encouraged As He Campaigns

Canadian Press

Seaham, Durham, Eng., Oct. 13.—The reception he was given yesterday evening when he opened his campaign for re-election to the Commons has renewed Premier MacDonald's confidence.

His job now, he explained to-day, was to clear up the nation's complicated problems in the minds of the voters who live in this Seaham harbor constituency. And he has begun by reducing the phrases of high finance to the simple language of making both ends meet in the government as well as in the home.

To-day he spoke at a miners' centre in Dawdon, spoke again in Seaham, and to-night will go to Morpeth. There will be more speeches to-morrow and he plans to fly back to London on Friday.

NEARING OTTAWA

Ottawa, Oct. 13.—Major Eric MacKenzie, D.S.O., whom the Governor-General has appointed commander of the household, is expected to arrive at Government House on Saturday, October 17. He has been charged with a christening cup to the infant son of the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough.

BIG PROFITS

The principal witness on the final day of government testimony was Fred Barker, who testified in a similar trial after which Jack Guzik was sentenced to five years.

Ries said that the Cicero, Ill., gambling house, which the government charges was Capone-owned, made a profit of $177,500 in 1927 and more than $24,800 in 1928. He did not say Capone was the owner, and denied ever having given the big gangster any of the profits. The boss, he testified, was Jack Guzik, who previous government witnesses had said was Capone's "financial secretary."

Judge Wilkerson overruled a motion for a directed verdict and ordered the defense to begin its case to-morrow at 10 a.m.

The government's case took four full days and two half days for presentation. It included testimony that Capone had admitted to a raiding party he was the owner of a Cicero gambling house, that he had admitted through counsel a tax liability and offered to settle on the basis of a four-year income of $250,000, that he had received at least $50,000 in telegraphic money orders while wintering in Florida and that he had spent money lavishly.

Montreal, Oct. 13.—The pound sterling at noon to-day was quoted here at $4.28 for demand and $4.29 1/2 for cable transfers.

FRIENDSHIP DESIRED

Against the anti-French utterances of the Nationalists at Warburg, Sunday the Chancellor pledged continuation of Franco-German efforts at rapprochement.

"Direct and open conversations such as that at Chateaux are to pave the way for a solidarity of nations," he said, "for a possibility must be found to create clear and honest relationships and feelings between neighbors."

"Germany, while fully appreciating the vital necessities of her neighbors, demands the realization of the principle of justice and equality among nations."

After reading of the government's declaration, which was applauded by the middle parties while the Social Democrats remained silent, the Reichstag adjourned until to-morrow.

PROGRESS MADE IN GREAT FIGHT AGAINST CANCER

Canadian Press
New York, Oct. 13.—An optimistic note in the struggle of medical science to combat cancer was struck by three noted surgeons yesterday in connection with the Congress of the American College of Surgeons.

four of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., there will be a great reduction in deaths from the disease when the public becomes well informed about cancer and acts with the intelligence of such knowledge. Sir George Lenthal Chestie, London expert, said: "At present it is not so much a question of the world fighting cancer as it is of cancer fighting the world. Elusive as the disease is, victory cannot be claimed by cancer. Cancer can be eradicated in many instances. The one most important weapon is early detection of the disease." Dr. Arthur H. Burgess, famed surgeon of Manchester, Eng., said the disease was not infectious, contagious or hereditary, seemed to depend on no known article of diet, and had a tendency to develop where there had been chronic irritation. "One of the most unfortunate facts about cancer is that it is not painful enough in its early phases," he said.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE CROP

The September fruit and vegetable crop report, issued by the Dominion Fruit Branch, shows an increase in estimated apple production of 6.5 per cent over last year, or a total of 3,634-

000 barrels. The B.C. crop shows a decrease of 30.7 per cent, while Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes show increases ranging from 20 to 35 per cent over last year.

Production of pears, plums and prunes is 10 per cent below 1930, while the peach crop is 21 per cent heavier and grapes show an increase of 18.6 per cent.

Potato production at $3,569,000 hundredweights is 2,500 tons ahead of last year, with Ontario and Quebec showing substantial increases in production volume.

MACDONALD CAMPAIGNS IN CONSTITUENCY

British Premier Asks Seaham, Durham, Voters to Re-elect Him

Has Worked So Hard He Has Exhausted Six Assistants

Canadian Press
London, Oct. 13.—Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, three times Premier of Great Britain, stumped the coal-mining region of Durham to-day, continuing his three-day campaign defending his parliamentary constituency against a forty-seven-year-old school-master.

He spoke to 2,000 miners and their families at Hasledon yesterday evening in an effort to justify his leadership of the National Government and his economy measures against the attacks of William Coxon, secretary of the Labor executive that rejected him, and his only opponent for re-election. Reducing complex problems of national and international import to "simple problems of housekeeping—governing housekeeping," he asked his hearers to return him to the Commons so he might finish the job of reinstating Great Britain in her place in the sun.

WORLD CONFIDENCE
He tried to show them world confidence in the British financial structure meant world confidence in the British citizen; that the inflation of British currency meant a deflation in the individual's standard of living; that if the government did not make ends meet the people could not make ends meet.

"You don't eat pounds," he said at one point. "You don't wear pounds. Your shillings are worth only what you buy."

"Men and women of humble circumstances, you who have never been forced to deal with these great problems, I want you to go out as apostles to the coal pits; the street corners and home fireplaces to explain the situation."

ASSISTANTS EXHAUSTED

He silenced his hecklers with forthright language, and when a young blade insinuated he was getting too old for his position, he retorted:

"Perhaps you would be willing to take over the job. My youth is being renewed by my reception here. During the last few weeks I have worked harder than ever. I have exhausted a half-dozen assistants and am still going strong."

Over in Seaham, Coxon, fat and jolly, sat before his fireplace in shirt-sleeves and carpet slippers and told how he would be victorious and how the "money magnates would have to find MacDonald a safe constituency in Parliament."

"MacDonald's mantle will fall on Coxon," he said. "The pupil will overthrow the teacher, who has grown old."

FRENCH ASKING TARIFF AGAINST CANADA APPLES

Rouen, France, Oct. 13.—An apple tariff, aimed at Canadian and United States products, will come before Parliament when it reconvenes in November.

Much harder, juicier and in all ways better, the North American products have flooded the French market, creeping even into Rouen, the heart of the Normandy apple region. Growers have asked Parliament to protect them.

France imported 79,233 hundredweight of apples in 1913. Last year the figure rose to 495,489 hundredweight and it bids fair to surpass the latter figure this year.

French state railway engineers have been at work teaching peasants how to grow better apples and how to pack them.

RADIO BRIDGES ATLANTIC AND LIGHTS STATUE

Rome, Oct. 13.—Guglielmo Marconi bridged 5,000 miles of the south Atlantic yesterday by short wave wireless and threw a switch at Rio de Janeiro which illuminated the statue of the Redeemer on Corcovado Mountain.

The inventor sent three successive wireless signals and within three minutes had wireless confirmation they had been received and the lights were in operation.

With the Brazilian ambassador to the Holy See beside him, Signor Marconi read an appropriate message in which he said airplane wings and electric waves made Italy closer to America than Columbus could have dreamed.

WARM DEBATE IN IRISH HOUSE

Dublin, Irish Free State, Oct. 13.—Members of the Free State Government party arrived here to-day under strong guard to participate in the debate over the Public Safety Bill, scheduled to be introduced in the Dail tomorrow.

The measure would establish military courts to try official crimes and major offences, with power to inflict capital punishment for homicide. It would also restrict the press from advocating violence or publishing reports regarding bodies whose activities are repugnant to the constitution.

WIDER POWERS FOR CANADIAN COMMISSIONER

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson
Given Fuller Control Over Canadian Services in Britain

Canadian Press
Toronto, Oct. 13.—A special dispatch to The Toronto Globe to-day from its Ottawa correspondent said:

"Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, High Commissioner for Canada in Great Britain, will leave for England on Wednesday of this week with added authority conferred on him by the Dominion Government. He will now exercise considerable control over all Canadian Government offices and officials in the United Kingdom, and will be generally responsible for Canadian policies in the Old Country."

"An order-in-council has been passed respecting the enlarged status of the High Commissioner, who will have charge, supervision and control over all officials in the departments of Trade and Commerce, Immigration, Pensions and National Health, and Agriculture, who are in the United Kingdom."

"Following conversations between Premier Bennett and Mr. Ferguson, the Cabinet, on recommendation of the Prime Minister, felt the High Commissioner should have a larger voice in respect to Canadian policy in the Old Country, and that services of the various departments of the Canadian Government over there should be coordinated instead of being operated as water-tight compartments and administered entirely from Ottawa."

Ottawa, Oct. 13.—Jurisdiction over all departments of the Dominion Government in the United Kingdom will be exercised by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in Great Britain. An order-in-council passed when Hon. P. C. Larkin was High Commissioner and which gave to Mr. Larkin additional jurisdiction has been extended so as to apply to Mr. Ferguson.

MOBS RIOT IN CITIES OF SPAIN

Granada, Spain, Oct. 13.—Automobiles were stoned, a mail truck was wrecked and business paralyzed yesterday in a general strike here growing out of a demand by the chauffeurs union for more wages.

The governor's office, in a communique, requested the populace not to stand on balconies or on the streets because "heavy detachments of civil guards have been ordered to deal with the revolutionary strikers."

Seville, Spain, Oct. 13.—Police broke up demonstrations of unemployed here yesterday after several hundred persons had attacked and looted food shops.

The bakers were on a strike and military authorities supplied the city with bread.

MR. JOHN BUCKHAM

BRITISH COLUMBIA HAS LOST A sterling citizen and the provincial Legislature an able and conscientious member in the death of Mr. John Buckham. A life-long Liberal, but by no means a rabid partisan, the member for Columbia, as a supporter of the late government from 1916 till its defeat in 1928, and since then one of Mr. Pattullo's most active lieutenants, was equally popular with political friends and opponents alike. During his term as Speaker Mr. Buckham proved himself a master of procedure, while his decisions on all occasions were models of impartiality. If as a private member of the Legislature he was neither a frequent nor a loquacious participant in debate, his intimate knowledge of British Columbia and the province's requirements was always available to all who desired to draw upon it. He regarded his membership in the House as a serious public trust and not as a strategic point to which to attract personal advantage; and this is the reason why he was victorious at the polls at three successive elections won by the party of which he was a supporter—why, when the fortunes of that party suffered its temporary setback in 1928, the constituency of Columbia again endorsed him as its member.

Apart altogether from his unquestioned integrity as a servant of the public, his unimpeachable code of honor as a citizen and businessman, Mr. Buckham was the possessor of a personality which won him many sincere and lasting friendships. Whether in the Legislature, in political debate, or in ordinary conversation, never would a note of bitterness be heard. He could defend or attack a party principle without heat. Sincerity of purpose dominated his conduct at all times. All of which emphasizes the loss which the province has sustained in his passing. And to the numerous expressions of sympathy that will go out to his sorrowing family The Times adds its condolences.

OUR COAL'S FUTURE

WHEN WE GET AROUND TO IT WITH the money and the men with the necessary technique, we will make a great deal more of our British Columbia coal resources.

That this time is drawing nearer, we are at intervals reminded by the reports from Germany, Britain and certain centres in the United States of the advances in the distillation of coal under which are turned out products that reduce the waste involved in present methods of utilizing the fuel by burning in an open fire. Chemically, the problem has been solved for some time; all efforts recently have been directed toward cutting down the cost.

Almost unlimited is the number of products that can be produced from coal through distillation. However, because of the enormous consumption by motor cars, engineering energy is directed chiefly toward the production of gasoline. This is especially the case in a country with unlimited coal, but no oil resources, such as Britain.

What has been accomplished in that country was demonstrated during the last week when representatives of the Mining Association and experts and owners from all the coalfields of England and Wales went to the new plant at Bellingham, Northumberland, where gasoline is being produced on a commercial basis from coal by the hydrogenation process. Three and one-half tons of coal upon treatment at the first unit of the Bellingham plant yielded one ton of gasoline. The plant is designed to produce 200,000 tons of gasoline a year. Lubricating oils of various grades are also turned out.

To Vancouver Island and other coal areas of British Columbia such developments bring a vision of a new era which will dwarf anything imagined for the coal industry here in what were then thought to be its up-and-coming days before oil came on the world scene as a major fuel.

THE HERALD SPEAKS OUT

ALTHOUGH IT IS A STAUNCH SUP- porter of the present administration at Ottawa, The Calgary Herald does not mince its words in recording its objection to the manner in which some members of the government behave toward the press of the country. Our contemporary thinks "it would be better for the Conservative party if its leaders had a different attitude to the organs of public opinion."

Senator Robertson, Minister of Labor, is reported from British Columbia as pleading with the press for fairness in dealing with the unemployment problem. Senator Robertson then proceeds to tell the reporter that, inasmuch as he is a member of the Upper House and does not have to seek re-election, he may be regarded as non-political and impartial in all his actions. A member of a party government tries to "put over" a remark of that kind! A reporter of a week's experience would smile at it. If Senator Robertson wants fairness from the press, it would be well for him to play fair with the press. The worst offender, of course, in this regard is the Prime Minister himself, whose attitude toward newspapers has been frequently quite rude, and who, indeed, appears to have a notion that the world, and especially the world of politics, would be better off if there were no press. Mr. Bennett made on the floor of the House of Commons statements concerning the press, and particularly concerning the newspapers of Calgary, that were untrue, and he has never publicly recalled them.

A newspaper worthy of the name, in trying to serve the public faithfully, comments The Toronto Globe, has to be reasonable in its treatment of public affairs. The astute politician, as a rule, recognizes this, and usually is frank in discussing matters with the press. Members of the present government have not only departed from this policy but have sought alibis in alleged misquotations. If, as a result, the public concludes that the government is in a muddle, the government can blame itself for making no effort to create any other impression. Possibly it can find no explanation, or does not know where it is heading. In any event, the Toronto paper concludes, it could try to cultivate sympathy.

TAKING IT ON THE CHIN

THE THINGS THAT WILL OCCUPY A warm spot in one's memory in the years to come are not always easily recognized when they occur. It happens now and then that a man will come to look back fondly on what once looked like a real catastrophe, while the events of which much was expected will lose their glow and merge with the featureless background of dead years.

The other day, for example, Haverford College sent out questionnaires to its alumni asking them this and that about their college experiences; and one former student contributed the following: "I was kicked out after one year for being a fool, but I hope Haverford feels as kindly toward me as I do toward her. I derived a great deal of help and inspiration from her."

Quite obviously, this man does not feel the same now about his expulsion from college as he felt at the time it happened; and that, perhaps, is very often the case, not only with expulsions from college but with other things. We get—since life is fairly hard—a thorough jolt now and then and it is not fun; but later on, when we look back, we can see that we deserved it, and we can also see that it was rather good for us.

One of the things that keeps this world from getting too monotonous is the fact that most of us can learn only by being kicked. This Haverford man is only one among many. He had a very common human experience. He was given a great privilege—how many people, by the way, realize just what a tremendous privilege a college education can be?—and he failed to recognize it. Failing, he was thrown out. But, though he was thrown out for being a fool, he was not as big a fool as he might have been. He was able to profit by his misfortune. To-day he can look back with real affection to the college that refused to put up with him.

Not all of us, of course, are able to do that. When we get our bumps we indulge the natural tendency to cry out that some malignant power in the world has it in for us unjustly. We sulk, in plain English, like so many three-year-olds—and so, by and by, it is necessary for us to get bumped again.

But there is another way of meeting those things; and as we grow older we come to understand it better. Any sinner can look back fondly to the halcyon days. The man who is moving forward is the one who can look back with real satisfaction to the times when he took it on the chin.

THE GREAT DELUSION

SUMMING UP THE WORLD FINANCIAL condition, one of Canada's foremost economists, Mr. W. H. Moore, M.P., former chairman of the Tariff Advisory Board at Ottawa, says that "plainly the creditor nations have just three alternatives; they may take payment in goods (if it is not too late), they may forgive in whole or in part the debt, or suffer repudiation."

The Toronto Star predicts that this post-war period will be known in the future as the time of the Great Delusion, when all the nations abandoned trading and went in for selling only, with even states and provinces, cities, towns and villages, catching the dementia and striving to buy only at home, while expecting to go on selling far and wide. In this they overlook the vital fact that when one country sells to another and accepts payment in goods, it refurbishes its customer with purchasing power to buy more goods, and those ships which continue to run are those carrying cargoes both ways.

With the world's gold tied up, there are only three ways, as pointed out by Mr. Moore, in which international settlements can be made. To refuse payments in goods leaves only the alternative of wiping out the debt or accepting repudiation. That is how the world is deluding itself into so much trouble.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

LOSING OUR BEARINGS
 The Ohio State Journal

Thoughtful men and women who have experienced the value of systematic saving must have read with amazement the statement issued by the United States children's bureau at Washington that the use of penny savings banks was a menace to child welfare. The claim was made that their use tended to make misers of American children, who should be taught to spend, not to save, their small stores of cash. Such predictions are a far cry from the homely philosophy of the fathers who laid the foundations of this nation, contrary to the famed doctrine of Ben Franklin.

An enthusiast in the child welfare department, who voices a spending philosophy in place of the federal government, is in conflict with the policy of the nation in maintaining a postal savings system. Ohio homes, valued at hundreds of millions of dollars, have been erected and paid for on the systematic savings plan, and these, with the billions in savings accounts in banks and savings associations all over the nation, offer a flat denial of the soundness of the philosophy of easy spending. Systematic saving is but the preliminary preparation for wise spending.

JACK MUNROE MAKES A STRIKE
 The London Free Press

The Jack Munroe who is reported to have uncovered the richest gold discovery on record near Sioux Outlook turns out to be the Jack Munroe of such high fame. He was at one time a contender for the heavyweight championship of the world. This was when Jim Jeffries was at the height of his glory, and he proved too much for Jack. After his defeat in the prize ring he turned to mine prospecting in New Ontario. When war was declared he was the mining mayor of Elk Lake. He was one of the first to enlist and hastened to Ottawa to join the Princess Pats. The Pats had a rule that only men with military training could be taken. However, Jack Munroe was so enthusiastic and was such a fine, upstanding figure of a man—a perfect physical specimen—that he was accepted. He brought with him from the North a beautiful collier dog and those who saw the Pats march away—the first regiment to leave Ottawa—will always remember the towering figure of Jack Munroe and his dog.

When he reached England he was informed that the collier could not be taken to France. However, in some way, never revealed, the dog was smuggled across the English Channel and was the mascot of the regiment for some time. Jack Munroe fought all through the war, was wounded several times, but recovered to go back to the lines, march into Germany and return to Canada. He was one of the survivors of the Princess Pats who paraded down the cheering streets of Ottawa on their return to be demobilized. He returned to his beloved North, disappeared from sight, and now he has turned up again as the discoverer of a rich gold mine. Here's luck to fighting Jack!

Loose Ends

Concerning chestnuts on Cook Street—tariffs in Britain—and potatoes under the big fir tree.

By H. B. W.

A GENTLEMAN WHO lives on Cook Street with an observant eye, a philosophical mind and five chestnut trees, conveyed an interesting fact to me. Evidently he was conveying it wholesale, for I see it already printed by The Vancouver Province in its weekly account of the movements of higher politics in this capital. What this gentleman told me and, apparently any other newspaper man who would listen, was that when he had arisen early last Sunday morning he went for a stroll in his garden. To his great surprise he found his neighbor from next door standing on a street, under his chestnut tree. His neighbor was picking up the ripe chestnuts which had fallen to the ground, he was hurling them as hard as he could upon the sidewalk and watching how high they would bounce into the air. Then he took his coat off and hung it on the fence and started to see how far he could hurl chestnuts down the street. Finally he gathered up a dozen chestnuts or so, fondled them as if they were gold nuggets, put them in his trouser pocket and returned to his house, whistling. This, said my informant, was remarkable. It was particularly remarkable since his neighbor is Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture in the Provincial Government.

"Now what," said my philosophical friend, "can you say about that?" Well, I do not know what to say about it. The Province correspondent treats the incident heroically. He says that in these dark times the hurling of chestnuts by cabinet ministers is a splendid sign of the surviving vigor, the unquenchable spirit of our race. Mr. Atkinson's chestnuts, he suggests magnificently, should belong in history with Drake's bows at Plymouth Hoe. I wouldn't go quite that far, nor, on the other hand, would I compare the chestnuts rather with Nero's fiddle. Also, I am strong-minded enough to resist the temptation to make cheap puns about the nutty flavor of provincial politics. To my mind the incident of the chestnuts is important, entirely understandable, and charmingly human. Any man who likes to play with ripe chestnuts at this season must be a good fellow, whatever his political qualifications. It is not too much to say, indeed, that any man who cannot find an unreasonable, childish joy in ripe chestnuts, with their sleek smoothness and lustrous sheen, is a villain at heart. Of course, there is no logic in the fascination of October chestnuts but that is just the point. Our love of chestnuts is an ancient thing, inherited from our ancestors in the better, simpler, natural days when there were chestnuts but no logic, and no governments or cabinet ministers either. When a cabinet minister rises above being a cabinet minister and hurls chestnuts down the street on such sharp October mornings I am all for him. Historically speaking, it is a much better thing that we should love brown shiny chestnuts than dull governments.

UNFORTUNATELY, however, we can- not spend all our time on chestnuts in these unregenerate times. In this column, I note, then, that the evident swing of Britain towards a tariff is being interpreted widely in this country as confirming the essential soundness and value of the high tariff theory. Gentlemen who have always favored high tariffs in this country are wagging their heads wisely and saying that the Old Country has come to her senses at last and that, with all the world on a high tariff basis, there should be no more silly talk about low tariffs. This interpretation of events is widespread and, as you would expect, it is very silly. On the contrary, Britain's swing towards a tariff is not a proof of the desirability of tariffs. It is the crowning proof that tariffs, in the long run, are always ruinous. Of course Britain is swinging towards a tariff and for the very good reason that other nations including this one, have piled up their tariff against her, stopped the natural flow of commerce, thrown her more and more back on her own market. And just as tariffs have depressed Britain's trade in other countries, so will a British tariff depress other countries' trade in Britain and, if this kind of thing goes on, eventually the world's trade will be in watertight compartments and no nation will have any tariff advantage over the other because there will be no trade, after a while, to be affected by a tariff.

ACCORDING TO THE current logic, you might just as well say that huge national armaments are desirable simply because all the nations maintain them. They maintain them because the other nations have them and, just as in the case of tariffs, no one is any further ahead of his neighbor. In fact, everybody is further back because of the drain on business in the case of armaments and the interference with trade in the case of tariffs. You might as well say that new Empress Eugenie hats, which look like poached eggs, are desirable merely because every woman wears one. She wears one because everybody else is doing it.

IN YOUR EFFET life in the city, enjoying all the luxuries of civilization, including the intellectual fruits of this column, I do not suppose you have any idea of the prodigies of labor which, even at this late season of the year, are proceeding out in the country, in order that you may eat next spring. I mean, you give me no more credit for planting flat potatoes these days than for writing this column. Perhaps, indeed, you didn't know that potatoes are planted in the fall on a nice bed of good old-fashioned barnyard-stuff to keep them cozy and warm during the winter. And I don't suppose you have ever made a potato pit such as I have been making to-day out under the great fir tree. Well, I guess you can't help it. Probably you haven't got any potatoes to pit; nor any little girl from next door to help you. The little girl from next door helped me by valuable comments and by rolling in the earth which I piled on the potatoes.

"So the frost won't get in," I said. "Will Jack Frost try to get himself in?" "Yes, he will try to get himself in," "Hasta make a big hole for himself?" "Yes, he'll have to make a big hole for himself."

"Has Jack Frost got a shovel to make a hole for himself?" "No, I don't think he has a shovel."

"Well, he'll have to go and buy a shovel for himself down at the cent store. Once I bought a shovel at the cent store. A real one. But it's all gone and got itself rusted now. Has Jack Frost got a little girl like me?" "Jack Frost, I understand, is not married."

"Why isn't he married? Won't nobody marry him? Maybe his nose is too cold, eh? Would Jack Frost marry me when I get a big girl?" "When I'm getting a big girl I'm going to marry lots of times and have twenty-two little boys and blue coats. An' when they're naughty I'm going to spank 'em on their bottoms. I guess that'll make 'em good. Does your mummy spank you on the bottom when you're naughty? Why not? Will Jack Frost come tonight?"

"No, I don't think to-night."

"Well, tell him he better come Wednesday night 'cause that's when I have a egg for my tea and he could have one too. And then I'll tell him no dig himself into these potatoes. 'Cause if he digs himself into these potatoes, well, in the winter his nose will get all cold like my doggie's."

 From The Times Files

And now it is hump, British Columbia is producing many things already, but month by month something new is added to the list. The latest industrial product that has been experimented has been cultivated with the utmost success, as a large sheep pen on the island of Vancouver, and the Parliament Buildings prove.

F. E. Ward, general manager of the Great Northern Railway, was in the city yesterday for the purpose of making an inspection of the Victoria Terminal Railway. He made a trip to Sidney over the road and then returned to Seattle.

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity—Moderate to fresh northerly to westerly winds, partly cloudy and colder at night.

The championship baseball series between the American and National League representatives is proceeding apace. Three games have been played two of which have gone to the former and one to the latter. The opening contest resulted in a victory for the American leaguers by a score of 2 runs to 1. The second resulted in a win for the Nationals by a score of 7 to 1. The White Sox defeated the Cubs in the third game.

When Mayor Morley leaves for Kamloops to attend the session of the Municipal Council, it is to be held on October 26, he will be asked through the City Council to urge certain amendments to the Municipal Act which will facilitate the work of making the city the most beautiful of the west.

But should P.C. go to prison again? In very truth, I think not. What language should describe the social crime: what words could fit the infamy of a community that, amid this immeasurable superabundance, forces the humblest of its townsmen to go supperless to their rest?

And as this poor famishing "criminal" was being taken down to the cells, Dr. Grant Fleming of McGill University, before a select audience, was describing, in restrained but unmistakable language, how little Canadians are being damned from their

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times
 London: Magnetic sands are blamed by Commander Borges Fortes of the Brazilian Navy for the recent wreck of the Munson liner Western World on the Ponta do Boi Rocks near Santos. Commander Fortes advances this strange theory to account for the numerous wrecks that have happened at this spot, where fifty-eight other ships have sunk. He supports his contention by pointing out that the sands of the island of St. Sebastian, near the scene of the wreck, contain a mineral called "Pedra Iman" (Iron Stone), which has strong magnetic power. Brazilian mariners who returned recently from Santos report that when passing the dangerous point on the coast compasses of their ships deviated from eight to ten degrees, while in one ship that passed very closely the compass needle swung wildly.

FOR THE PEDESTRIAN

To the Editor:—I should be glad if you could find space for a little suggestion in your paper.

We read so many suggestions about work to be done this winter. Would it not be a good thing if, instead of the talked-of bridge paths, a few pedestrian paths could be put in on popular Sunday walks? It is not very long ago that $2,000 was expended for the old bridge path, which I don't believe was ever used at all.

As Oak Bay would have to help about a good path on the side of the hill going past Mrs. Shool's house, which is a dangerous spot for pedestrians, and on past the golf links. Any one driving or walking can testify to the popularity of that walk on June days, and the danger of it to pedestrians, especially those with little children, with a constant string of motor cars. There is grass in places, but no one uses it, as it is wet to walk upon.

THE GOLD STANDARD

To the Editor:—Depreciation of the pound sterling in terms of foreign exchange—change—regards its effect on the British Empire, and especially on the puzzle some people. It requires to be borne in mind that the pound is still the only recognized legal method of payment in the British Isles, and that it is a matter of debt, bonds, or other obligations. Foreign bondholders must accept payment of obligations in the terms of English law.

If the former demure at accepting such payment he can only further lower the world exchange value of the pound sterling or force Great Britain to print more paper money, which amounts to the same thing, and if the foreigner continues to press unduly he will find that he gets nothing whatsoever.

It is childish to contend that if the pound depreciates in terms of other currencies, say the American dollar, that does not in the least alter the relation of pounds to bonds in Great Britain or abroad. Such depreciation by foreign exchanges of the pound value implies also depreciation in value only in terms of international financial obligations in home or foreign markets.

In reality the weapon now being wielded by Great Britain in defence of the British Imperial hegemony against the financial or any other arbitrary dictation, attempted blindly by the inhabitants of the United States of America, should have been brought into play years ago.

Premier Bennett was ill-advised when he stated that no matter what Britain did, Canada was going to stay there. When he has realized the full implications of this declaration he will doubtless modify his policy.

It is not to be denied that the British Empire is a member of the Imperial group. President Hoover would not have been so bold as to say that the British Empire is a member of the Imperial group.

cried by undernourishment, and how the victims of subnormality are being manufactured wholesale in our unspeakable slums. (These particular facts apply to the richest city of Canada: are similar ones existent elsewhere?)

If these horrors were caused by an alien race, by an enemy at our gates, we should long ago have had national committees, empowered to ration the populace, ere such ghastly injustice should be perpetrated. Have we no leading citizens to-day who will call for it and insist on it?

For the fortunate recipients of incomes of $500 per week, our Canadian income tax is only one-fifth of what a Britisher pays: for those with incomes of $1,000 per week, it is just over one-third; and for incomes of $10,000 per week it is rather over half of the British rate.

Shall our finer feelings always be sacrificed to Mammon? Shall wealth take precedence of humanity for ever? Will not every devout patriotic Canadian, with his face in the dust, make this solemn vow:

"In this land of prolific plenty, no human being shall go hungry; in this avalanche of unmarketable textiles, no man, woman or child shall go in rags; in this half-continent of unlimited raw materials and of boundless natural resources, no human being shall be shivering or without roof or bed, if it can help it. So help me God."

CHINA AND MANCHURIA
 To the Editor:—Prior to the Chinese revolution of Sun Yat Shen in 1911, there existed in all large cities in China, an inner walled city called the Manchu City.

As the conquerors of the empire, the Manchurians lived in these fortifications as a superior ruling class, which became a condition at times unbearable to the Chinese. When the revolution broke out, these Manchu cities and their inhabitants were the objects of national hatred. In the heart of Nanking, the present capital, was one of the largest of those Manchu cities, and it was torn to pieces brick by brick, till nothing was left but ruined foundations.

Few of those Manchu inhabitants were allowed to escape. Brutal cruelty was the order of the day. Women and girls rushed to stagnant pools of water, streams, or holes of any kind and threw themselves head first into them so that they would be drowned before a more brutal death could reach them.

The destruction of property, the horror, the cruelty of frenzied mobs was appalling, national hatred was

LOST 20 LBS. FAT GOVERNMENT Without Altering Diet WORKERS GET SALARY CUT

To reduce weight without any attention to diet is rather more than anyone should expect. That the Kruschen method should have succeeded in this case, is a great tribute to its effectiveness.

"When I started taking Kruschen for reducing weight, I weighed 190 lbs. That was seven months ago. I decided I was too heavy, and now, thanks to the half teaspoonful of Kruschen every morning, I tip the scale at 150 lbs. I have been thin weight for nearly four months. I may say I feel much better. I did not diet myself in any way whatever."

Kruschen Salts do not reduce you overnight—like so many products claim to do. But taken regularly over a period of time—with a modified diet and gentle exercise, half a teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast will take away unhealthy flesh and restore your figure to its normal weight. Yet at the same time—build up health with a great increase in vigor and energy or you!

(Adv.)

Reduction Ranges From Two to Ten Per Cent Through-out Service

Reductions in salaries of British Columbia Civil servants dating back to October 1 and ranging from 2 per cent for lowest paid employees to 10 per cent for the highest paid workers have been announced by the government. Over 1,500 workers will be affected and a saving of $250,000 is estimated.

The cuts are in five salary divisions, as follows: On salaries of $1,225 and under, 2 per cent; on salaries over $1,225 and up to $1,850, 3 per cent; on salaries over $1,850 and up to $3,075, 5 per cent; on salaries over $3,075, and up to $4,300, 7 per cent; on salaries over $4,300, 10 per cent.

A statement issued by the government Saturday said: "These reductions will apply to all salaries drawn from the consolidated revenue fund of the province, including the salaries of cabinet ministers, of workers in government institutions, to the Land Settlement Board and similar branches, to the provincial police, and to the Liquor Control Board and all its employees. The government is making overtures to the Workers' Compensation Board, which has charge of the salaries of its employees, and it is expected that the same scale will be adopted there."

The greatest losses will be suffered by cabinet ministers, who will lose $750 a year, deputy ministers, chiefs of staff, members of the Liquor Control Board and all receiving over $4,300 a year.

Suggestions for a cut in seasonal indemnities for members of the Legislature are being considered.

WEDDING AT METROPOLITAN

Miss Anna M. Cliff Pretty Bride of Victor E. L. Goddard

Unusually beautiful in all its appointments was the wedding which took place at the Metropolitan United Church on Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock, when Rev. E. F. Church united in marriage Anna Marjorie, youngest daughter of the late Mr. F. Thompson and Mrs. Cliff, 1216 Richardson Street, and Mr. Victor E. L. Goddard, elder son of the late Mr. G. E. Goddard and of Mrs. Goddard, "Sea Point," Sidney.

BRIDE IN POINT D'ESPRI

Autumn flowers and foliage were lavishly used in the decoration of the church. Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. R. L. Cliff, of Vancouver, the bride made a charming picture in her ankle-length gown of white point d'esprit, the high-waisted bodice finished with a deep bertha collar, while the skirt was marked at the hip-line with a frill of silk net, a similar frill marking the hem. Her veil of embroidered silk net was confined to the head with a circle of orange blossoms and fell in snowy folds to form a train. Her only ornament was a necklace of pearls, an heirloom which had belonged to her great-grandmother, and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and pink carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Cliff, sister of the bride, in a pretty frock of seafoam green georgette, made with a long flared skirt, a plain bodice finished with a deep bertha collar, and a soft circle of georgette at the natural waistline, and a cream lace hat, who carried a bouquet of pink carnations and mauve Michalemas daisies, and Miss Iris Goddard, sister of the groom, who wore a frock of beige lace with a short jacket and a mohair hat to match, and held a bouquet of peach gladioli and carnations.

The flower girls were little Jane Bolton, in a yellow crepe de Chine smock, and Joyce Cleithine, in a smock of green crepe de Chine. They wore flower bandeaus in their hair and held baskets of tiny yellow and white chrysanthemums. Mr. Everett Goddard supported his brother, and the ushers were Messrs. Edwin Cliff, Wilfred Johnston, Robert Goddard and Alan King.

The wedding music was played by Edward Parsons, and during the signing of the register Miss Mary Percy sang "Beloved, Is It Morn."

As the bridal party left the church the Sidney troop of Boy Scouts, of which the bridegroom was the organizer and Scoutmaster, formed a guard of honor.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The bride and groom received their guests beneath an arch of greenery and chrysanthemums, and were assisted by Mrs. Cliff in a smart dress of black lace with a white collar and a black Eugenie hat with a black plume, and by Mrs. Goddard in a blue and white plume. Both wore sashes of violets and pink roses.

The supper table was centered with the wedding cake and arranged with vases of pink carnations and branched silver candelabra with tall pink tapers. Assisting in serving were Miss Virginia and Marjorie Goddard, Miriam and Enid Church, Evelyn McFarlane, Mary Percy, Kathleen and Winifred Taylor, Marion McGibbon, Rhoda Chattell, Genevieve Sorenson, Mabel and Viva Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Goddard left for the mainland, the bride traveling in a frock of silk travel tweed in shades of wine red, with collar and cuffs of egg-shell satin, a brown Eugenie hat and a fur coat.

The young couple received many handsome gifts. The groom's gift to the bride was a jade bracelet; to the first bridesmaid, jade drop earrings; to the other, opal hairpins; to the flower girls, bead necklets; to the best man, a tiepin, and to the ushers, gold cuff-links.

On their return they will make their home at Royal Oak. The mainland guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cliff, Messrs. Isabel and Grace Bolton, Jane and Verna Bolton of Vancouver, Miss Olive Chilton of Hollywood and Miss Mady Annandale of New Westminster.

FASHION PLAQUE

Empress Eugenie, who is carrying the fashion field this fall, has a strong competitor in the dove pump, which is cut low on the side, almost like last year's bed-room slippers. This pump in brown kid with beige kid perforations is made smart and practical by a strap which is wide across the instep and tapers to a point at the sole of the shoe.

COUNCILWOMEN OF B.C. TO MEET

Provincial Gathering in New Westminster Thursday; Victoria Resolutions

The autumn meeting of the Provincial Council of Women will be held in New Westminster, at the Y.W.C.A. on Agnes Street, on Thursday. The executive meeting will commence at 10 a.m., while the general meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m., and official delegates will be the guests of the New Westminster council at luncheon.

Three important resolutions are to be dealt with at the business meeting, these being from the North Vancouver Local Council of Women, the Vancouver District Women's Christian Temperance Union, and from the Victoria Local Council of Women.

The chief speaker of the day will be Dr. C. W. Topping, associate professor of economics at the University of British Columbia, who will at 3 o'clock give an address on "Social Change." In main, the address will cover the summary of a three-unit course of lectures lately delivered at Columbia University, New York, by Professor W. G. Ogburn, and Dr. Topping will discuss the theory of change or evolution as recognized and believed in by the cultural, rather than the biological and psychological schools of thought.

Others speakers will include Mrs. J. R. Gilley, national convener of mental hygiene, and Mrs. H. J. K. Labiak and Mrs. T. H. Kirk, president and vice-president, respectively, of the Vancouver Local Council of Women. The two former, who were the only delegates from British Columbia to attend the annual convention of the National Council this year, when it was held at Moncton, N.B., will briefly outline the highlights of that affair, as observed by them. Mrs. Kirk, who recently returned from abroad, will also give a short address, her subject being impressions of her journey, and it will be delivered during the luncheon hour.

CAT'S ESTATE BRINGS $8,000

Household Effects of World's Wealthiest Feline Auctioned

San Gabriel, Calif., Oct. 13.—Auction of the household effects of Mitz, once the world's wealthiest cat, brought a total of approximately $8,000, it was revealed today. Attracted by the unusual event, hundreds of persons yesterday gathered at the palatial home here where Mitz had lived until her death last April at the age of eighteen years.

The cat had been allowed to use the home of its mistress, Dr. Maud Main Ide and a special trust fund had been set aside for the upkeep of the large house and the cat's guardian, Mrs. Pauline Goetz. On the death of the cat, the trust fund and house went to the other beneficiaries, largely charitable organizations, of the will of Dr. Ide. The estate totalled $255,000. Included in the household effects of Mitz which were auctioned yesterday was a four-posted bed, which the cat had used for years. Money realized from the auction was added to the state.

WIFE OF FLIER SEEKS DIVORCE

Cecil Allen, Transpacific Aviator, in Domestic Tangle

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 13.—Donald Moyle and Cecil Allen, transpacific fliers who experienced a lot of trouble and once were given up for lost, arrived back home Sunday but their troubles were not ended.

Mrs. Mary Allen, wife of one of the fliers, who, after the take-off from Japan for United States said she and her husband had become reconciled after an estrangement, announced she planned to institute divorce proceedings.

As for Moyle's troubles, the flier knew he faced them before he left Los Angeles for Japan. To-morrow he will appear in superior court to be committed to jail for thirty days. Convicted on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, sentence had been deferred until he made the flight.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER SLODGE

The parent who can "get along" amicably with her neighbors is often a wildcat when she feels her child is being mistreated or slighted. She expects her offspring to be appreciated at his full value, though she has no hesitancy about pointing out the unlikability of the neighbors' children. There is no doubt that the best of us cannot give the neighbors' children quite the appreciation we give our own. We are inclined to consider their misbehavior, their bad manners, their quarreling, inexcusable. Our own little lamb is, of course, blameless or at least sympathetically understandable. It is unwise, and silly to quarrel with neighbors because of their children's actions toward our own. The neighbors' children are seldom any better or any worse than ours. We view them through distorted glasses.

THE BAD NEIGHBOR CHILDREN
Mrs. G. H. M. has a familiar story to tell. You've probably heard one like it, or been a partner to a similar situation. "My little boy is four years old," she writes, "and there is only one family on our street with whose children he can play. The children's ages are three and one-half, seven and eight. They are so mean to my little boy. When he goes over to their house, they pick on him so that he always comes home crying. If he so much as touches their toys, they strike him. But when they come to our house, they run through it like a drove of wild animals. Usually he is so tickled to have them play with him that he would give them everything he possesses. It just makes me burn with indignation.

"I have spoken to the mother about it but she just laughs and says, 'Let them alone.' I don't think she cares what they do to my child. Sometimes I could just cry. I feel so badly for the little fellow. He is so lonesome and needs companions so badly. What shall I do?"

INTERFERE ONLY WHEN NECESSARY

The two older children should not play with the younger ones. When there is such disparity in ages, children cannot be companionable. Invite the younger child to play with your boy and exclude the older ones. Give them all the toys you have and then busy yourself elsewhere, letting them learn to get along with each other. If they fight roughly, don't blame the other child, but view them impartially and separate them. Tell both of them that when they can stop fighting, they can play together again. That ends all discussion of who was to blame. Let them both suffer the penalty of having to play alone.

Stop viewing your child with tearful eyes. He isn't to be pitied. Do not spend over him, commiserating with him and letting him see how good you think he is and how mean the other children. Such an attitude develops in him a smug priggishness which will make him eternally disliked by other children.

A mother has a right to separate children when they are hurting each other. That is all the interference which will make him eternally disliked by other children. Perhaps readers would find "Help in Securing Neighborhood Peace" a helpful leaflet to possess. Just a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent with your request to the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper will bring a copy of this leaflet.

Y.W.C.A. Helping Working Girls By Lower Rates

With a view to helping the working girl whose resources have been depleted owing to the present business depression, the Y.W.C.A. board of directors at its meeting last week decided to lower the rates of board and room to permanent residents and also to make a sliding scale for breakfasts. Mrs. Arthur Walsh presided.

Plans were made for the annual membership tea on Saturday, October 24. Two new members, Miss Jean McLaren and Mrs. J. A. Pearce, were welcomed. The resignation of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. L. Armstrong, was received with regret by the directorate, and Mrs. H. S. Graves was appointed to complete her term of office.

As an evidence of their wholehearted interest in the movement, a contribution was voted by the directors towards a fund for a local survey by a trained worker from the Canadian Council on Child and Family Welfare as a means of centralizing relief work and social welfare throughout Greater Victoria.

The girls' work committee reported the opening of a number of night classes and clubs, and outlined plans for a Halloween party to be held on October 30, with the traditional fun of that occasion.

The religious work committee has arranged for an entertainment lecture, "A Night in China," to be given by Mrs. E. M. Clark of Vancouver next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the "Y.W." parlors.

Reports of other standing committees were received, and the general aid report gave an interesting resume of assistance rendered at boats and trains during the past month.

$460 for Solarium—Saturday's tag day in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium netted the sum of $460. Although the result is only about half of what was realized last year, the sponsors, the Victoria Women's Institute, are gratified with the result and Mrs. William Feden, the convener, wishes to thank all who contributed or assisted in any way. Mrs. M. Laird looked after the refreshments for the taggers. Headquarters were at 308 Union Building, and two H and M Chisholm of the Royal Bank assisted with the adding of the boxes.

Equimault League Busy—The October meeting of the Catholic Women's League, Equimault subdivision, was held in the church hall of Our Lady Queen of Peace Church with the president, Mrs. E. Egan, in the chair. Plans were discussed for the continuation of the very successful series of card parties which have been held fortnightly in the hall. Mrs. R. A. Duncan was appointed convener of the refreshments to be served by the Equimault subdivision as hostesses during the diocesan convention on October 21. Mrs. W. G. McManus, diocesan president, and Mrs. J. A. J. McKenna, diocesan secretary, were guests of honor at the meeting and spoke on the forthcoming convention. Mrs. McKenna also spoke of the league activities, complimenting the Equimault branch upon the success of so many undertakings.

St. Joseph's Junior W.A.—The junior auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital met at the kind invitation of Mrs. Lloyd Morgan at her home on Pemberton Road last week with the president, Miss Betty O'Brien, presiding. Miss Florence Oates, treasurer, reported for the very successful fashion show and tea held at the Empress Hotel and through which the funds of the auxiliary will benefit very satisfactorily. The auxiliary will undertake the candy stall at the bazaar for St. Joseph's Hospital on November 12, and will offer for competition a fitted traveling case. Two new members and two new councillors were elected. At the close of the business meeting bridge was greatly enjoyed by the following players: Mrs. W. Clark, Miss Rhoda Goward, Miss Doris Wollison, Miss Margaret Adam, Betty O'Brien, Babs Oates, Justa McKenna, Bobbie Goward, Alice Baines, Inez Penzer, Mildred Clark, Byrd Luney, Clare Allan, Kathleen O'Brien, Eileen Thain, Kathleen Foster, Audrey Levin, Kathleen Culum and Kathleen Bone. The prize winners were Clare Allan and Mrs. W. Clark.

Sharkey Bonds Back As Contender For Heavyweight Title

THE SPORTS MIRROR

St. Louis Cards Show Great Courage in Winning Ball Title

Defeat Robbed Mack of Chance to Set All-time Baseball Record

Victory in Deciding Game Was Sweet Revenge for Burleigh Grimes

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS won the world baseball championship on Saturday by blasting Connie Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics under a 4 to 3 score in the seventh and deciding game. The Cards were in a vicious mood and even the good right arm of George Earnshaw, Mack's peerless pitcher, failed to stop them. It was a great victory for St. Louis. Twice they took the lead in the series only to have the Athletics fight back and tie it up. And then again St. Louis claimed to have been handed a rare decision in the sixth game by Umpire Nallin. However, they came right back in the seventh and despite another close decision turned back the Athletics.

It must have been a sad blow to Mack to see his chances for a new world record go aglimmering with the defeat of the A's. The tall grey-haired manager of the Philadelphia League champions had set his heart on winning three consecutive world titles, something no other manager has been able to do. Now with this chance gone it is doubtful if Connie will get another opportunity to win three straight. It was a great accomplishment for "Gabby" Street, congenial manager of the Cardinals. It was his ambition to win a world title and his desire has been rewarded. Street had a colorful career as a big league catcher, being the battery-mate of the famous Walter Johnson.

Saturday's St. Louis victory was sweet revenge for the veteran Burleigh Grimes, spitball pitcher of the Cards. Twice last year the A's beat Burleigh on five-hit performances but this time he came into his own by turning back the Athletics twice, and the last time in the deciding game.

Mickey Cochrane had a couple of tough breaks in the first line-up Saturday when he let a wild pitch by Earnshaw get away from him, scoring a run, and then dropped a third strike to allow another runner to get home. Cochrane showed plenty of courage to play in the series at all. He should have been on the bench or in a hospital. Mickey was forced to play with one arm at a time, while one knee was in a tight bandage to protect a charley horse. Cochrane was in bad shape at the end of the season but refused to stay out of the series.

The New York State Boxing Commission the other day barred an ambitious fighter from displaying his ability, or lack of it, before a Madison Square Garden audience. The reason, they stated, was that the young man should prove his class at some of the smaller clubs. The banned boxer was Benny Leonard, an undefeated lightweight champion of the world. Nice bunch of commissioners, aren't they, Benny?

Three National League sluggers, Hafey and Bottomley of the champion St. Louis Cardinals and Terry of the New York Giants, batted 349 at the top of the circuit. Hafey is champion by reason of approximately 1,500 of 1-140 of a point over Bottomley. Let us hope they are not instituting this kind of figuring in the heavyweight boxing situation.

Not all the slices are confined to the golf courses. Big league magnates gathered at the world series talked almost as much about the $1,000,000 shortage in receipts in their respective leagues as they did about the Cards and Athletics. Their confabbing concentrated on one point—sliding the salaries of the players at least 25 per cent, and perhaps more. We're wondering how much of a cut a certain Jacob Ruppert will make in a certain $80,000 a year salary a certain George Herman Ruth has drawn for the last two years. He will probably not accept a cut, but probably nothing lower than $85,000 a year.

Jack Belts Way To Decisive Win Over Game Primo Carnera

Sharkey Works Methodically on Big Italian Heavyweight and Cuts Him Down to Size in Fifteen-round Bout at Brooklyn; Carnera Goes Down For Six and Nine Counts in Hectic Fourth Round; Sharkey Shouts for Knockout and Attempts to Climb From Ring; Carnera Proves Game and Willing to Mix

New York, Oct. 13.—The bigger they come the better Jack Sharkey likes it and Primo Carnera, for one, won't venture to deny it.

In the same ring at Ebbets Field where he found 170 pound Mickey Walker too tough a foe to take a few weeks ago, Sharkey blasted his way to a decisive victory on points over the 260-pound Carnera yesterday evening and bounced himself right back to the forefront of challenger for Max Schmeling's heavyweight crown.

While a surprisingly large crowd of 30,000 looked on, Sharkey went to work methodically on the big Venetian and relentlessly cut him down to size. Before the Boston sailor's hand was raised in token of victory after fifteen rounds of spectacular mauling, Sharkey had floored Carnera for one nine count, closed one of the Italian's eyes and had given him so savage a beating that Primo was on the verge of a knockout on a half dozen occasions.

But if the fight reinstated Sharkey to his position as a leading contender it served also to remove any lingering doubt as to Carnera's courage and stamina. The huge Italian failed to exhibit his vaunted punch but he demonstrated all kinds of courage. Subjected to punishment severe enough to have finished almost any other heavyweight, the Italian man mountain still was in there offering what resistance he could when the final bell sounded. Through the first three rounds and a part of the fourth Carnera amazed Sharkey and the crowd with his speed and skillful boxing. Using a left hand as Tommy Loughran, Carnera stabbed Sharkey off balance and had the American floundering about wondering what it was all about.

But the whole complexion of the fight changed in a flash in the wild fourth round when Sharkey, after taking a cutting in the clinches, suddenly lashed out with a left hook that dumped the huge Carnera on the canvas with a dull thud.

GOES DOWN TWICE

Gumboast Smith, the referee, started to count. At six, Primo, stunned, pulled himself to his feet with the aid of the ropes but went down again as his head cleared sufficiently for him to get his hands up. He was counted out nine. As Primo went down on one knee again, Sharkey tore across the ring and shouted: "He went down without being hit, he's disqualified. Count him out."

But Smith waved him aside and resumed the count. Sharkey, mad with rage, tried to climb out of the ring but his manager, Johnny Buckley, pushed him back.

Under the rules, Smith was within his rights in resuming the count. New York State Athletic Commission regulations provide that if a fighter goes down, gets up and goes down again without being hit, the referee, within his discretion, either may disqualify the offender or resume the count.

HURT BIG ITALIAN

By the time Sharkey was ready to resume Carnera was on his feet, leaning against the ropes. The battle was on again but Carnera never was the same.

Two Leading Heavyweight Wrestlers Will Battle Here; Brooks Meets McKay

What appears to be one of the finest wrestling cards in weeks has been lined up for this Saturday evening at the Tiltium gymnasium. In the eight ten-minute round main event Steve Savage, popular Chicago heavyweight, who has made such a big hit with local fans in recent weeks, has been matched with Bob Kruse, clever Portland grappler. In the five-round semi-main event "Rocky" Brooks, local heavyweight, will battle Pat McKay, Chicago.

This will be Savage's third appearance here in as many weeks. Last Saturday he defeated Bill Demetral in a body slam expert and one of the cleverest men to appear here. He is clean and in his two bouts here has put on first class performances.

Kruse will be returning to Victoria after an absence of many months. The Portlander is one of the toughest men on the coast and also one of the dirtiest. He is rated one of the bad men of the wrestling game, but can always be counted on to put up a great scrap.

The Brooks-McKay bout should also be a first-class battle. McKay handled himself well in his last bout here against Axel Anderson and proved very popular with the fans.

The first bout will start at 8.45 o'clock.

C.P.S. Hoopsters Play Commercial

Lumbermen's Senior "A" Five Will Make Debut at High Gym Wednesday

Green Mill and J.B.A.A. Open Senior "C" Schedule; Games Set For Saturday

Stew Skillings and his band of C.P.S. hoopsters will make their debut before local fans on Wednesday night when they tangle with the Commercial in the feature game of the Victoria and District League card to be played at the Victoria High School gymnasium. The other two games will bring together the Green Mill and J.B.A.A. in a senior "C" men's game and the Standard Steam Laundry and a team managed by Jack Taylor in a senior "B" women's encounter.

Three games will also be played this week at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday night, with Keating playing West Road in the feature.

Wednesday's feature game should provide plenty of thrills for local fans, as the Commercial, fresh from their last week's win over the Buysa, will be out to keep their record clear. The C.P.S., stronger than in former years, are quite confident that they will upset their opponents.

The opening game between the Green Mill and J.B.A.A. will bring the senior "C" men into action for the first time. The Standard Steam Laundry last year will be making their initial start in the higher division. This team, greatly improved over the last three years, will bear watching and may cause an upset throughout the year. Their opponents on Wednesday are dark horses and will bear watching.

Trenton, N.J., Oct. 13.—Kid Chocolate, Cuban negro lightweight, out-pointed Steve Smith, Bridgeport, Conn., in a ten-round bout here yesterday evening. It was their third meeting and Chocolate's third straight victory over the New Englander.

Although Smith put up a good fight or it all the way, there was no question as to the decision. Chocolate was given every round except the eighth by the referee, and that one was called even.

Chocolate weighed 126½ pounds, barely over the featherweight limit. Smith scaled 130½.

Scoops Up Loose Ball in Second Quarter to Tear Thirty-five Yards for a Touchdown as Victoria Gridders Defeat New Westminster Dodekas 7 to 2 in "Big Four" Replay; Capitals Show Smart Offensive and Defensive; Hunnings Makes Much Yardage With Line Bucks; Victoria Shows Good Aerial Attack

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Oct. 13.—Victoria Capitals, the Island entry in the "Big Four" Canadian Rugby League, passed and bucked their way to a 7 to 2 victory over New Westminster Dodekas here yesterday. The game was a replay of the contest two weeks ago when Dodekas won 13 to 5, and which was protested when an intercepted pass by a Victoria player who went over for a touchdown, was called incomplete.

Victoria now holds second place in the league standing.

Bellis brought the crowd to its feet when he picked up a loose ball in the second period and galloped more than thirty-five yards for a touchdown for the Island team. A rouse in the third and a deadline kick in the fourth completed Victoria's scoring, while Niblo's two kicks to the deadline, one in the first and one in the second, accounted for both of New Westminster's points.

Shoots a 68 in First Round of Uplands Cup Competition Sunday

James Randall Leads Field With a Net 64; Low Scoring Feature

Though he equaled his own amateur course record of 68, three under par, Bob Morrison finished second to James Randall Sunday in the first round of the annual Uplands Cup competition, the net score classic of the Uplands Golf Club. After a first nine of 36, one above par, Morrison really braced himself and came in 32, four under par. On this second nine, Morrison displayed some of the golf that has made him one of the outstanding amateurs in Canada. Following is how his card reads for the nine: Par, birdie, par, birdie, birdie, par, birdie, par, He had two twos and three dunes on the eighteen.

RUGBY CHAMPS TAKE MATCHES

Winnipeg St. John's and Native Sons Serve Notice of Retaining Titles

Winnipeg, Oct. 13.—Champions of rugby in the west, junior and senior, have given notice of determination to retain their titles. Winnipeg St. John's, for two years undefeated in Manitoba senior rugby, yesterday notified their third successive win of the season, while Winnipeg Native Sons, junior monarchs, showed brilliant form in exhibition play.

In the only Thanksgiving Day title not carded as an exhibition, the St. John's team rode the blasting boot of Alf McLaughlin to a 9 to 3 win over the humble Winnipeg. The Native Sons, rated as certain to take the Manitoba junior crown again, romped to easy victory, 20 to 0, over Saskatoon Hilltops, Saskatchewan junior titlists. Two western university teams bowed to reverses in holiday exhibition games. Alberta's student twelve accepted a 7 to 0 setback from Calgary Altonah-Tigers, who appeared to have recovered from Saturday's unexpected defeat at the hands of Edmonton Eskimos. Regina Roughriders, title-bound in the west province, carded an easy show-stay win over University of Saskatchewan, 15 to 2.

Penalty Goal Kills Victoria Reps Chance of Win

Danny Clancy and De Costa Star In Intercity Fixture

Tricky Outside Left and Goalie of Local Eleven Give Outstanding Performances in Match With Kerrisdale Merchants, Vancouver; Score is 1 to 1; Barney Burns Nets Victoria Goal; Teams in Scoreless Deadlock at Half-time; Visitors Play Snappy Passing Game

Corlett's goal from a penalty ten minutes before the final whistle gave Kerrisdale Merchants a 1 to 1 draw with the Victoria "reps," in the exhibition-football match at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday afternoon before a large crowd. The match, for so early in the season, produced some first class soccer, with the local net bearing a charmed life in the second half. Victoria's lone goal was scored by Barney Burns, centre-forward, halfway through the second half.

De Costa and Clancy gave two of the finest exhibitions seen on a local football field for some time. In the second half De Costa broke the hearts of the visiting forwards with his brilliant saves. They drove shots at him from all angles, and he handled them in a manner to make the saves look easy. On more than one occasion he rushed out of his net to clear the ball from scrambles in front of the goal, gathering in the ball from a mix-up of legs and feet. Clancy, playing his first game of the season, was the outstanding forward on the Victoria team. Time after time he got away on fine wing rushes, and followed them up with pretty centres. Several times Danny went in himself to test Stewart, the visiting goalie, with hard drives and with a little of luck would have scored at least two goals. The visiting halves and full-backs were pressed to block the clever outside left throughout the entire match.

NICE PASSING GAME
The visitors uncorked a short snappy passing game, that had the Victoria players worried all the time, but showed little finish in front of the net. On their chances, Kerrisdale should have won by a margin of three or four goals. Considering the fact that the local soccer season has only been under way two weeks, the exhibition of the Victoria team was favorable. Vancouver opened on the offensive, and Burns drove in a fine centre from outside right, but there was nobody in front of the local net to convert it, and Harper cleared. Roots had a good opening on a fast break-away, but kicked wide. Vancouver forced a corner off Leggett, but De Costa cleared Furness's centre. Clancy finally got away and shot in a fast corner only to have Stewart clear. Hil-ditch was pulled up for a double kicking, but Clancy booted the ball behind the net. Clancy got away again only to be pulled up for handling the ball. Gibbons blocked Hil-ditch's clear, and was right through, but his shot hit the side of the net. Stewart rushed out of his net to pick off Joe Crowe's long shot from centre.

Vancouver returned to the attack and Roots kicked behind and Corlett hoisted the ball over the bar on good openings. Burns broke away only to be called offside, while King kicked to the sideline to relieve. Hil-ditch was pulled up for tripping Clancy after the outside left had beat him, and Smith lobbed the ball into the goal mouth, but Stewart cleared with Gibbons and Burns ending up in the net. Stewart made two good saves from Clancy and Joe Crowe just before half-time.

CLANCY IN LIMELIGHT
As the second half opened Roots hoisted the ball on top of the Victoria net after breaking through the local defence. Clancy and Burns broke fast and the former drove a shot dead on the goal, but Stewart kicked down the field. Clancy sent in a pretty centre that Bob Stewart headed for the corner and with Stewart beaten all the way King kicked clear. De Costa threw himself on his stomach to block Corlett's low drive. "Scotty" Stewart tried a long shot and was only inches wide.

Vancouver went into the lead when Burns took a pass from "Scotty" Stewart near the centre line and rushed the ball into the Vancouver net. The visitors crowded the ball into the Victoria net and peppered De Costa with shot after shot, but the local goalie was safe.

With about ten minutes to go, Vancouver tied the score when awarded a penalty shot for Harper's tripping of Munro. Corlett picked the corner with a bullet shot. Just before the final whistle the game was held up when Clancy and McNeil met in a collision and were knocked out.

GAINS WANTS TO MEET JACK
Canadian and British Empire Heavyweight Champ Seeks Bout With Sharkey

London, Oct. 13.—Harry Levene, manager of Larry Gains, Canadian and British Empire heavyweight boxing champion, will cable the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission seeking their sanction to a bout between Jack Sharkey, who conquered Primo Carnera yesterday evening, and Gains, who is a Toronto negro.

Levene is also communicating with the British Empire Council Board with a view to pressing Gains's claims for a fight with Sharkey. Levene disputes Sharkey's right to meet Schmeling for the world title on the grounds Gains already has a knock-out over Schmeling to his credit. Levene added to-day that Gains is ready to meet Primo Carnera, the Italian man-mountain, if Carnera is coming back to Europe.

LEW RUSH IN THIRD PLACE

Victoria Bicycle Rider Carries Off Prize in Vancouver Holiday Event

Vancouver, Oct. 13.—Doug Cliff, Class B rider, carried off the Dr. Moody bicycle racing cup yesterday in the fastest time of 17 minutes 17.2 seconds, beating the Class A winner, Frank Elliott, by three seconds.

The Class A riders got off to a close start and were bunched to the crowd's pitch, when Frank Elliott sprinted to take the lead, which he held to the big hill, when Stan Johnston made his bid for honors. The pace was fast and the field of nine riders were well bunched.

As they came around the Lost Lagoon, with the field still bunched, Elliott sprinted again, narrowly avoided a bad spill, but pulled through and came in across the finish line wheel and wheel with Syd Luck, who took second place, with Len Rush, Victoria, as a close third.

Class B got away to a good start, but soon after the big hill was passed Cliff pulled into the lead, which he maintained to the end of the course, although challenged on several turns by Alex Sinclair and W. Ripell, who came in first and second, some distance behind the first rider, Jack Nicholson was a close third, coming across the line sprinting hard.

Just before the first bunch of riders were sent away the crowd stood for one minute in remembrance of Don Sutherland, local bicycle rider, who died Sunday, and Dr. Glenon Moody, donor of the cup bearing his name.

Bob Shanks Pilots Machine To Great Win In Hillclimb

Veteran Rider Turns in Stellar Performance and Captures Paul Girardau Trophy in Feature Event of Victoria Motorcycle Club's Annual Test at Mount Douglas; George Reece Tops Hill in Seven Seconds Flat For New Record; Frank Thomas and Clyde Paulson Win Other Events

When Bob Shanks, veteran Indian rider of the Victoria Motorcycle Club, zoomed his peppy Scout over the top for the last time yesterday afternoon, he brought to a close one of the most thrilling struggles to date for possession of the Paul Girardau Challenge Trophy, emblematic of the club hillclimbing championship.

The annual Thanksgiving climb, held at Mount Douglas, was unquestionably the most successful ever held by the club. The weather was perfect, the crowd turned out in large numbers, variously estimated from 2,000 to 3,000, and motor trouble was noticeable by its absence. In addition, the events were run off without a hitch.

Shanks won the main event after a three-cornered fight, which left three of the club's expert riders in the contest. Able West took second and George Reece was third. Eighteen riders competed for the trophy, which is open to all types of machines ridden by club members.

Although Reece failed to do better than second in this class, he took a second in the seventy-four-inch class and, incidentally, recorded the fastest time of the day to win a special award donated by R. Shanks.

Shanks also took another place with a third in the forty-five-inch class and West took two awards with a third in the seventy-four inch, besides his second in the open.

SPLIT SECONDS DECIDE
A hard surface on the stuff slope up the side of Mount Douglas, combined with perfectly tuned motors, resulted in all events being decided by the timer's watch, although in some cases riders were unable to reach the top.

The first event was for forty-five cubic inch motors and was won by Frank Thomas, riding a Harley-Davidson. He topped the hill in eight seconds, and took a first in the attempt, but was tied by Walter Rowe. In the ride off, Thomas again went over the top, although requiring nine seconds to go over the hill in the grade, so placed second. Bob Shanks, whose best time in this class was eight and three-fifths seconds, finished third. In only two cases the riders were able to go over the top.

SPILLS COMMENCE
Bringing motors of larger displacement and more power into play, the twenty-four class provided some keen competition and started a succession of loops, spills and whirrs, which kept the crowd at the top of the hill in constant excitement. Four riders out of the eight negotiated the grade in less than eight seconds, Clyde Paulson winning with seven and one-fifth on a Harley-Davidson.

Reece refereed and teams followed. From the kick-off the sailors pressed and booted in several shots on Glen-dinning in the Garrison's goal. He proved safe however and the soldiers retained their lead at half time.

EDWARDS SCORES
Early in the second half Edwards secured the ball and lifted a tricky shot past Barker to give the soldiers a two-goal lead.

During the following twenty minutes, play moved from end to end. About five minutes from time "Ginger" Cockerill broke through to score the soldiers' lone counter.

Navy-Barker, Ribbert, Robinson; Fittal, McDonald, Roberts; A. Cock-erill, Williams, Wilson, Walker and Edwards.

Garrison—Glendenning; Lindsay; Buxton; Finch, Henderson, Quinn, Bundock, P. Richard, S. Richard, Edwards and Forbes.

HUDSON'S BAYS WIN
Hudson's Bays took the advantage of all their breaks in the second fixture. Time and again the storemen's forwards tore through the Saanich United defence to send in good shots on goal, while the suburbanites failed to show their usual form.

Fish started the goal parade about ten minutes after the start when he worked his way through to score on a low shot from inside the penalty area. Armstrong added another in quick succession and Taylor made it 3 to 0 before the half closed with a stinging shot from the right wing.

Saanich tried hard to score several times but failed to get the ball past Percy Shrimpton in the departmental net.

FINAL TALLY
In the second-half the Bays played easily, secure behind their three-goal lead. About midway through the period Small got his foot to the ball in front of the net and shot it home for the fourth and final tally.

Johnson refereed and the teams followed:
Saanich United—Rowe; Wyatt; Cann; Stonier, Moir, Bianco; Brown; Ward, Burns, McNaughton and M. Speller.
Hudson's Bay—Shrimpton; McKenna; Davis; Cull; Woodley; Oakman; Taylor, Fish, Armstrong, Small and Newell.

A. Karlsson Wins Edmonton Marathon
Edmonton, Oct. 13.—Axel Karlsson, former Swedish marathoner now resident in Falun, Alberta, romped to an impressive win in The Edmonton Bulletin's annual ten-mile Thanksgiving Day road race yesterday, finishing the long trek through the city streets in 59 minutes 43.4 seconds, nearly two minutes ahead of George Butler, Edmonton, who was in second place. Ernest Hoyrup, Edmonton, in third.

ASTOUNDING RECOVERIES OF FATHER, MOTHER AND DAUGHTER
Mr. Geo. Harris, Herbalist, Calgary.

Dear Sir:—
My husband suffered with a very bad rheumatic leg, which was twice the normal size. He went to various doctors, trying various medicines and elastic bandage, but nothing did him any good.
One doctor put him on a diet, which reduced him to skin and bone, but still his leg was the same. It was so big that it hurt the side of his foot out. However, he decided to try your medicine as a last resource, which I am so thankful he did, for after two days' treatment he was able to get a night's sleep, where before he had to lie on his back with the pain of it. After two weeks the swelling began to go down, and by the time he got through his first bottle his leg was nearly normal and he began to pick up and put weight on. He says he thinks Harris' Wonder Health Restorer saved him from being crippled.

I suffered terribly myself with kidney trouble, having two operations in two years for stones which formed in the kidneys. Nobody knows the terrible pain and agony I went through, only those who saw me after my last operation, who felt so weak and listless, and after seeing what your Healthy Restorer did for my husband, I decided on giving it a trial, however. I am thankful I did, as it stopped all the pain in my stomach, and I was able to eat and drink anything, where before I was too scared to. I've never been troubled with my kidneys since taking it, and everyone says how well I look for that time of a year before. I've gained in weight and never felt better for some time.

I also gave it to my little daughter when she was getting over mumps and swelling in the summer. I look for that time of a year before. I've gained in weight and never felt better for some time.

I have recommended this medicine to quite a number of friends and people I know, and each one says the same, they well they felt after even the first bottle.
My home will never be without a bottle of Harris' Wonder Health Restorer as long as I can get it, and I wish many people suffering with rheumatism or kidney, or indigestion would try it.

Yours very truly

READ WHAT RETIRED HOSPITAL MATRON WITH YEARS' EX-PERIENCE HAS TO SAY

Dear Sir:—It is with much pleasure I send you a report of my progressive back to good health after taking Harris'
Wonder Health Restorer for eight weeks.
Ten weeks ago I had an examination and my doctor said I was on the verge of Pericarditis Anemia, and could do nothing for me. Soon after I saw your advertisement and as I am a great believer in herbs I started taking your medicine. My husband also took your remedy as he has been a terribly sick man for years with Bronchitis, Asthma and General Debility, and had tried many other treatments but none gave permanent relief.

In both cases the results are marvelous, as our health is returning by leaps and bounds. We still continue taking your treatment and would not be without it. I am a retired hospital matron, having nursed for thirty years,
I am passing the good news along to all my friends who are so astonished at the improvement noticed in our health.

You may use this letter in any way you wish as I shall be only too pleased if it will give confidence to others.
Thanking you from my heart for the wonderful work you are doing for humanity.

Gratefully yours
MRS. MARY K. CAMPBELL

Herewith are submitted a few from thousands of testimonials bearing witness to the marvelous work this great herb remedy has done for suffering humanity. These statements are from prominent reliable people investigation. They are not anxious to have their photographs published but are very sincere in their statements. Many of these people have telephones and are only too glad to tell you of their cases. Where there is another remedy that can prove such marvelous results?

Your attention is called to the fact that in many instances this remedy accomplished successful results where sickness had been standing for years; in others it was taken as a last resource after everything else had failed; in still others when the only treatment recommended by physicians was an operation. Don't give up hope until you have tried Harris' Wonder Health Restorer, but do not wait until the disease is well advanced—it is only natural that it will be more easily overcome if the trouble is caught in its early stages.

The price of Harris' Wonder Health Restorer is $3.00 per bottle (contents 8 fluid ounces); or Three Bottles for $8.00. Included with every bottle of Harris' Wonder Health Restorer is a separate bottle of Harris' Thymus Bitter Tonic. Harris' Wonder Health Restorer in Capsule form, boxes of 100, price $4.00 per box. Bitter Tonic included free with every box.

Thymus Bitter Tonic is also made entirely

Dear Sir:—It gives me great pleasure to testify to the marvelous benefit obtained through taking Harris' Wonder Health Restorer. I have suffered for over thirty years with my stomach and went under an operation for bursted Appendix and Peritonitis. This gave me relief for a time, but as my stomach was in a very weak condition I was stricken with dysentery, I then began to have a lot of pain in my head and knees which the doctor said was Neuritis. I suffered for eight years and felt I could not hold out any longer. I dreaded going to bed as I could not sleep and had to be very careful what I ate.

I am glad to say that after taking my second bottle I began to sleep better and my food stayed down and life seemed worth living after all. After I had taken four bottles I felt like a new woman.

I certainly feel grateful for what it did for me and shall be glad to recommend Harris' Wonder Health Restorer to anyone. Trusting this letter will be of service to many other sufferers. Yours sincerely

THANKSGIVING SERMON CALLS FOR HUMILITY

Baptist Church Filled Yesterday For Ministerial Association's Service

Censure of Present World Situation Made By Rev. G. F. Cox; Special Music

The First Baptist Church on Quadra Street presented a real Thanksgiving scene and many hundreds of Victorians filled it yesterday for the annual service, of the Victoria Ministerial Association, the proceeds of which went to the Unemployed Relief Fund. The congregation and choir under Oliver Stout sang Harvest Thanksgiving hymns, thus uniting themselves with thousands of congregations and choirs all across the country, and two solos and a number of trios were special features of the service.

A sermon on a subject of significance and topical interest, "The World Crisis and Its Cure," was preached by Rev. G. F. Cox of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Others participating were Rev. W. R. Brown of James Bay United Church, who conducted the service; Rev. E. F. Church of the Metropolitan United, who read the prayers; Rev. M. S. Richardson of the Emmanuel Baptist, who recited the scriptures; and Rev. G. A. Reynolds, pastor of the First Baptist.

The special songs included the boys' trio, "Thanks be to God" (Dicks), sung by Billie Inglis, Tom Anstey and Kenneth Cave; a solo, "The Gracious Lord" (Mauder), by Miss Mae Mason, and a second solo, "O Lively Flowers (Mauder), by Mrs. R. McIntosh.

CENSURES WORLD
A note of censure of unprecedented situation of the world to-day was struck by Rev. Mr. Cox at beginning of his sermon. Millions of unemployed, wheat elevators bursting with corn and the farmer bankrupt, bread queues in the cities, and Germany turning to rye bread and straw because it can no longer afford to eat wheat, men kept alive with doles while abundant capital lies in the banks waiting a chance for profitable investment—these were the facts for which the preacher tried to find a cause and a cure.

Many causes, both economic and political, were offered for this appalling situation but moral causes were ignored, he continued. Business was founded upon faith between man and man; and faith between man and man depended upon every man's honesty, truth and uprightness. Where these were lacking there could be no credit, because there was no trust. "If God were to make a perfect order of society to-morrow, there are not the morals in the earth to keep it so," he said.

TOO MUCH CYNICISM
"The cures offered by the world are many," Mr. Cox pointed out. "One offers psychology, another states (only by an extensive programme of international reconstruction comprising co-operative action in the commercial, financial, and political fields can a permanent cure be effected). And so on. A clever writer has come to grips with the crux of the question when he asked: 'Is the present generation too steeped in cynicism to be capable of the moral effort needed for its salvation?' That, he claims, is an admission that the solution of the problem lies not in the political or the economic realm but in the realm of morals."

"We have sinned and aroused the Divine anger, therefore is this evil come upon us. Even our political life ignores God. It shuts His Book out of our schools. It contravenes the laws of God by legislating for party and not for justice and truth."

ATTACKS CAPITALISM
"Commercially we have also transgressed. Capitalism, capable of being a heaven-sent organ of distribution conferring blessings both upon distributors and receivers, had become a mere means of gain and selfish government. The great masses of the people have not been one whit behind their leaders. They have broken God's holy laws and taken His name in vain. To the great majority, God's holy day is simply a holiday. The abundance of all things has all been selfishly appropriated to man's own uses."

"The only remedy for our present ills lies in II Chronicles 7:14: 'If my people, which are called by My name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sin and will heal their land.'"

WHAT TO DO
"Four things God calls upon us to do: To humble ourselves, to pray, to seek God's face, to confess our sins and turn from our wicked ways. Three things God promises to do in return: To hear, to freely forgive and to heal our land."

If the people of Canada would appoint a day of national prayer and humiliation, they could claim the fulfillment of God's promise, and depression and unemployment would pass away, the preacher concluded.

BOMB THROWERS ARE WARNED BY CHICAGO MAYOR

Outrages on Theatres Over Employment Dispute Stir U.S. City

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Theatre bombers have carried their terrorism into the heart of Chicago's Loop.

A black powder bomb, believed by police to have been tossed from an adjoining taller building, exploded a fraction of a second before it fell on the roof of the Monroe Theatre late yesterday.

The rush crowd in the Loop, startled by the noise, scurried to cover. Several hundred patrons inside the theatre escaped injury because the force of the explosion was spent upward. It shattered windows in the offices, occupied by the Chicago Real Estate Board adjoining the show house. Workers there were showered with glass.

It was the second theatre bombing in two days, and the twelfth since the Allied Independent Theatre Owners' Association broke with the Chicago moving picture operators' union over the latter's demands that each theatre must hire two operators per shift. The owners, contending one operator was sufficient, imported operators from eastern cities to man the booths. Four attempts to settle their difficulties have been futile.

Police Lieut. David Schwartz said the bomb apparently had been tossed from the fifth floor of the adjoining building by a man who had been carried to that floor fifteen minutes before.

Mayor A. J. Cermak said he "deplored the outrage," adding: "If it becomes necessary to assign the entire police department to protect life and property from bomb throwers, this will be done."

Refreshments were served at the close of the game by the hostesses, Mrs. Haddon and Mrs. Guy.

The next card party will be held on Wednesday, October 21.

The harvest festival at St. Stephen's Church, Mount Newton, will be held on Sunday, October 18.

Water Flow Sought For Spawning Fish

So that salmon on their way to spawning beds may successfully fight their way through the waters of Goldstream the fishing committee of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce has asked the B.C. Electric Railway Company Limited to release enough water from Japan Gulch reservoir to assure a safe passage for the fish. The annual run of salmon, which many people from the city drive out each year to see, is now on, and a recommendation of the fish conservation committee of the chamber, under A. S. Denny, was sent to the company last week. For the benefit of the spawning fish it asks the company to supply a run of water down the stream for about three hours before each high tide, sufficient to assist the fish to reach the spawning grounds.

THE MISTAKE OF A FAMOUS DOCTOR

Dr. Robert G. Jackson's paternal grandfather, father and eleven paternal uncles and aunts, and his own brother and sister, all died of heart disease. At 50 the great Sir Wm. Osler gave the doctor himself only four months to live, dying from heart disease and "general breakdown." He'd lived five years on the ground floor, unable to climb stairs. Four years after Osler gave him up, he climbed the fifty storeys in Washington's Monument, up and down, and was not even tired. All a result of changed living habits—chiefly a change from civilization's disease-causing acid foods to alkaline-forming Roman Meal. His 438-page book, "HOW TO BE ALWAYS WELL," tells the entire story—shows how anyone may be always well, by natural means. Remit $3.00 by P.O. order for a copy, or write for descriptive literature to ROBT. G. JACKSON, M.D., 507 Vine Ave., Toronto 9, Ont., or write for his free booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL," and sample of Roman Meal and the new alkaline beverage, "Kofy-sub." (Adv.)

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmit (double strength), add to 1/2 pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. (Adv.)

BAUME BENGUE (pronounced Ben-Gay) quickly relieves the knife-like pain or "crick" in the back due to lumbago or sacro-iliac disturbance. Its penetrating quality stimulates circulation, lessens congestion and soothes the irritated nerves. Its exceptional pain-relieving properties bring immediate comfort. Good for every pain of nerve and muscle.

BRITISH TRAIN REGAINS SPEED TITLE OF WORLD

But It Is Slow Compared to South American Deerfly, Or Even Pigeon

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times
London—The feat of the Great Western Railway's "Cheltenham Flyer" in regaining the world's railway speed record for Britain by traveling at nearly seventy-eight miles per hour, was beaten when the same express attained a speed of more than eighty miles an hour.

Coming, as it does, close on the new air record set up by Britain in the Schneider Trophy contest, it is particularly well timed.

It is, however, even more remarkable on its own account. There can be no comparison between the feat of flying a specially-constructed light "projectile"—for such, in actual fact, the Schneider express might be termed—and running a train weighing nearly 200 tons, carrying a full load of passengers at the greatest train speed ever known, yet in comfort.

THE HIGHEST FORMS OF SPEED
Yet the fastest living creature attains a velocity infinitely greater than the G.W.R. express and more than twice that of the Schneider plane. The South American deerfly has been timed at 815 miles per hour. So at least say the Brazilians, who declare all one can see is a blur of color as the deerfly ghosts speed through the air at a velocity greater than that of sound! Sound waves travel at twelve miles a minute, against the deerfly's thirteen and a half.

Natural streamlining reaches its zenith in the sleek contours of a carinivorous fish. The barracuda and swordfish can travel eighty miles per hour when stalking a prey. The killer "whale" is almost as fast. The human organism is not adapted for speed in the water. Despite an advanced technique, swimming remains the slowest, if not the most laborious medium of human locomotion. Even Weismüller does not quite reach four miles per hour while thrashing through a hundred yards of water in fifty-two seconds. A barracuda could travel a hundred yards more than twenty times while Weismüller was swimming that distance once.

A PIGEON'S RECORD FLIGHT
A pigeon has been timed at 118 miles per hour over a measured mile. This particular bird covered 3,217 yards in one minute. Eminent investigators in natural history believe that the Asiatic antelope is the fastest land animal. An antelope has been timed at sixty miles per hour across Mongolian steppes. Over a short stretch, the cheetah, or hunting leopard, is the only four-footed creature that can keep pace with the antelope. A little bullet, with a muzzle velocity of 2,600 feet a second, travels at more than thirty miles a minute, but again Nature has the last laugh of man. The all-time speed record of the universe is held by light, which moves at 186,000 miles a second!

Speed Winner Rose Rapidly

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times
London—Flight-Lieutenant Boothman, who won the Schneider Trophy race at the record speed of 340.08 miles an hour, is an example of the keen young officer who is soon marked out for promotion. When he joined the R.A.F. in 1921 he quickly showed great promise. In the monthly examination list he was usually top. He progressed quickly with his flying instruction and was ready to pass his flying tests in a very short time, although he was not allowed to do so until he had flown the prescribed number of hours. He was always keen to fly the fast machines, and when he had completed his year's instruction he was posted to the Central Flying School to fly single-seater fighters. Later he became an instructor there, and his career from then on was with fast machines. Flight-Lieutenant Boothman has an attractive personality and is very popular wherever he goes. His unaffected good humor and desire to believe the best of everyone have made him a host of friends, and there is not a member of the R.A.F. who begrudges him his success.

Illness In Infancy May Affect Whole Life
Rickets and Nervousness Leave Their Mark on Child
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

It has long been recognized by doctors that diseases occurring during the first few years of life are more likely to leave permanent marks on the human being than those which occur later in life.
In the museums of disease accumulated by great medical schools, there are hundreds of examples to prove that a child who has had rickets during infancy grows up with skeletons that are somewhat distorted because of the unequal growth of the bones. Nervous habits acquired in infancy persist for many years.
Recently Dr. C. E. Bloch of Denmark has made a special study of the permanent defects of teeth due to insufficiency of vitamins in the diet of the infant. Thirty-eight boys and twenty-six girls, ranging in age from eight to twenty years, were studied. All of these children had symptoms of deficiency of vitamin A in childhood. As a result of this deficiency, one or both eyes had been removed in twenty-three cases. In thirty of the cases, one or both of the eyes had shrunken, and in all of the cases serious changes had taken place in tissue of the eye.
In a more recent study, having to do particularly with the effects on the teeth of the deficiency of other vitamins in childhood, Bloch found that a severe deficiency of vitamin A in infancy, resulting in a disease of the eyes called xerophthalmia, has serious effects on the child. Half of the third of the children reach the age of eight years. After this, their development goes on normally, except that the eye disturbance may result in impaired vision or complete blindness.
There seems to be no question that an absence of vitamin D in infancy results in disturbances of formation of the skeleton and dental caries. Dental anomalies in man seem to be due chiefly to abnormality of the way in which the body takes care of calcium and other minerals during the period

Jack Belts Way to Decisive Win Over Game Primo Carnara
clubbing him on the head with left hand, and right hand on Carnara's chest for a count of nine. Sharkey claimed Carnara had gone down, gotten up and gone down again during the count. He argued with the referee before resuming fighting and tried to leap from the ring, but his manager forced him to resume fighting. Another volley of left hooks hit Carnara's chin before the bell sounded.
Round five—Sharkey ripped into the Italian madly and stunned him with a left and right to the head. Carnara staggered and Sharkey drilled another right to the jaw and he held on desperately. Sharkey whanged two more left hooks to the head but Carnara recovered, held his ground, and even ventured two left jabs to Sharkey's nose. Carnara caught three vicious left hooks on his right arm and Sharkey promptly lashed a right to his body. Twice Carnara reached Sharkey's head with left light jabs and Sharkey could not penetrate the Italian's armor. Primo took the offensive again. He dropped two rights on Sharkey's head as the bell sounded.
Round six—Carnara, taking a right on the chin, tore into Sharkey and pinned him against the ropes with a wild head barrage. Sharkey bobbed carefully and Carnara brushed his cheek with a straight right. Sharkey dove in with a left hook to the body and clipped Carnara's ribs. Carnara with his left hook, Sharkey made the giant lead as much as possible, rolled away from most of the left jabs and smashed back with countering lefts and rights to the body whenever they appeared. The pace slowed sharply as Carnara failed to his Sharkey solidly and the sailor was content to roll away from him punctuated by the time he slipped.
Round seven—Sharkey, slightly under both his eyes, ripped into Carnara with a hard left hook to the chin. As Carnara staggered at him with lefts, Sharkey crossed over the chin with his left hook. Sharkey made the giant lead as much as possible, rolled away from most of the left jabs and smashed back with countering lefts and rights to the body whenever they appeared. The pace slowed sharply as Carnara failed to his Sharkey solidly and the sailor was content to roll away from him punctuated by the time he slipped.
Round eight—Carnara was scarcely breathing hard as he came from his corner and apparently in perfect condition, while Sharkey's seconds worked hard and drove right and left to the body. A left hook bounced Carnara into the ropes but he came back smiling. Again Sharkey smashed the giant on the chin with his left but Carnara seemed to feel the blow. He popped Sharkey's head with a dozen jabs as Jack tried to weave his way in again with a left hook to the body. In a clutch the referee tried to break them, Sharkey bounced another left off Carnara's chin. He apologized for hitting on the break as the crowd booed and they slugged with both hands to each other. Blood trickled from Carnara's forehead. The pace slowed again and they were stabbing lefts to the face at the bell.
Round nine—Carnara back on the defensive and Sharkey, feeling his trying to lower him into a slip, would leave an opening. As Primo stabbed with his left Sharkey drove three hard left hooks to the body. A left hook cracked over Carnara's jaw and he was tangled in the ropes half stunned as Sharkey popped three more left hooks to his head. Another blistering left hook started Carnara's right eye swelling. Sharkey smashed both hands to the head and the giant stood stiff-legged and dazed, but before Sharkey could get past the giant's guard the bell sounded, and Primo wobbled to the ropes, holding on to the ropes for support.
Round ten—Sharkey went to work methodically on the Italian's great bulk, driving left hooks to the body to pull Carnara's guard down to put a smashing left to the head. Primo was hurt again as Sharkey slammed three left hooks to his damaged eye. A right to the jaw, another left hook, another right and Primo was wobbling. Sharkey was cautious and he backed away, waiting for another full shot. Primo boxed doggedly, both hands high to protect his jaw and he fended off most of Jack's left hooks. A body smash to the body, in a clutch the referee tried to break them, Sharkey bounced another left off Carnara's chin. He apologized for hitting on the break as the crowd booed and they slugged with both hands to each other. Blood trickled from Carnara's forehead. The pace slowed again and they were stabbing lefts to the face at the bell.
Round eleven—Sharkey tore into Carnara with two rights to the head and a left hook to the chin that shook the man mountain again. Sharkey drove Primo into a corner and blazed away at his head. Blood streamed from Carnara's nose as Sharkey poured lefts and rights into his features and his right eye was swelling steadily. Sharkey worked cautiously around him looking for an opening for one clean finishing shot. Carnara seemed to have lost any weight he might have had in his punches and Sharkey played with him like a verrier for one body blow. A left hook to the body doubled Carnara up and his face was drawn as he wobbled, his features smeared with blood under Sharkey's cruel, methodical slashing. Primo trotted wearily to his corner at the bell.
Round twelve—Sharkey raced across the ring and missed a wild right to the jaw. As Primo retreated quickly on the defensive, Sharkey drove a left hook into his body. The Italian was being cut down steadily to the size of a mole hill as Sharkey worked on his body with thumping left hooks. Feebly Carnara tried to jab, but Sharkey's strength, but Sharkey blasted him into the ropes, ripping both hands to the head and body. Despite the terrific punishment Carnara fought back sullenly. Although ineffectively, and Sharkey nailed him on the chin again with been let loose on one section of the inhabitants, and what was it all for? An idea—liberty and self-determination.

Now the tables have been turned round, and these Manchus declare themselves free of China, and demand that China should be interested in China. As Carnara stabbed at him with lefts, Sharkey crossed over the chin with his left hook. Sharkey made the giant lead as much as possible, rolled away from most of the left jabs and smashed back with countering lefts and rights to the body whenever they appeared. Fractional Advances Shown In All Months In Winnipeg Wheat Pit

Winnipeg, Oct. 13.—Wheat prices strengthened fractionally on the Winnipeg grain market to-day. Though slightly lower than the day's high marks, all months showed improvement. October was $\frac{1}{4}$ higher at 55.55, November seven-eighths at 55.55, December three-eighths to one-quarter at 55, and May one-quarter at 58.75 to 59.50.

Further good export sales of Canadian wheat, a healthier statistical position in regard to world wheat supplies and a broadening of speculative interest, was chiefly responsible for the improvement in to-day's prices. Demand for top grades of cash wheat

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG
(By Logan & Bryan)
Winnipeg, Oct. 13.—Wheat—The wheat market showed a strong upward tone to-day, being encouraged by the strong cables with export sales of Manitoba wheat for the holiday estimated at around 1,000,000 bushels. The market opened half higher, made further gains to show an advance of 1 and 1/4 cents above the close of Saturday and held most of the gain.

Offerings were moderately heavy from hedging pressure and from liquidation and profit taking by longs on the scale up, but the market was well absorbed. There being an excellent class of buying by continental houses and for New York account.

Investment buying continues to show improvement and there is more all-round confidence being shown in wheat at present than for some time. Chicago was fractionally higher, but did not advance in the wheat futures market. As very little export business is being done in U.S. wheat.

In the cash market there was a good demand for most grades from shippers, exporters and millers, and spreads on No. 1 hard and No. 1 northern grades were trading at a quarter better than at the close on Saturday.

Offerings were not pressing and other grades were unchanged. Canadian visible supply decreased 1,251,000 bushels and the U.S. visible decreased 3,434,000 bushels.

The last quotation on sterling was 90.00, and Canadian funds 9 1/2 per cent discount.

British imports of wheat from Russia September totalled 12,117,000 bushels, 3,229,000 bushels in August. British grain importers state that chartering of tonnage on behalf of Russia have now ceased and they believe that Russian grain crop is not as large as previously estimated.

Wheat production is thirty-five million bushels in the United States, now available is placed at 2,998,246,000 bushels of 4.5 per cent bushels, the 1931-1932 bushels reported in the country last year. Consumption of wheat flour in Europe is undoubtedly on a large scale also in non-European countries, and the disappearance of wheat is heavy.

Winnipeg futures closed three-quarters to one-quarter higher.

CHICAGO
(By Logan & Bryan)
Chicago, Oct. 13.—Wheat: Higher prices registered early but the market met considerable profit-taking, while the easier tendency in stocks had some influence. Early firmness was due to strong cables, the situation in the Orient and by European reports suggesting much more active buying by European interests had some effect. Liverpool closed 1/4 to 1/2 higher, but Saturday. Visible supply showed a good decrease, 3,434,000 bushels. World's shipments were 17,514,000 bushels. On passage stocks decreased 1,648,000 bushels, making the total float only 36,000,000 bushels. A year ago. Primary receipts 1,934,000 bushels against 2,171,000 a year ago. Export sales in all positions estimated 1,500,000 bushels to 2,000,000 bushels, largely Manitoba. Gulf premiums were firm and domestic cash markets continue quite steady.

Some precipitation was reported in the far southwest, but more rain is needed in that quarter. The market has had a good advance and some reaction is in order, but believe there is much greater confidence developing on the buying side, and continue to favor purchases on the wheat.

Rain rather heavy tone, the liberal receipts and reaction in wheat causing some selling. Shipping demand was slow with sales of 23,000 bushels and sales to export were 40,000 bushels. Rain's conditions prevailed over much of the belt. Receipts were 453,839 bushels, against 460,000 bushels a year. The visible supply increased 980,000 bushels.

During the period of accumulation corn is likely to be two-sided. Sales to store were 200,000 bushels. Cash sales 22,000 bushels. Sales to arrive 44,000. Visible increased 38,000 bushels. Foreign arrivals 383,000 bushels, against 414,000 bushels a year. Rye: The market eased off with other grains in the late trade. Visible decrease 25,000 bushels. Foreign reports are bullish on rye. Production being on a large scale also in non-European countries, and the disappearance of wheat is heavy.

Winnipeg futures closed three-quarters to one-quarter higher.

How to Lose Fat a Pound a Day on a Full Stomach

Do Just These Two Simple Things
—Fat Melts Away

NO tiring exercise, no starvation. Instead, a full stomach and never a hungry moment! Yet fat melts away. You can easily lose from four to seven pounds weekly, see the coarse lines of fat replaced by the refined lines of slenderness—and feel better than you ever felt in your life.

WHAT YOU DO

There are just two simple things you do: Clear your system and keep it clear of waste matter, toxins and depleting poisons with ordinary JAD SALTS obtainable at any drug store. Start with a teaspoonful in a full glass of water to-morrow morning—a sparkling and pleasant drink.

Then EAT YOUR FILL—as much as your appetite can stand—of meals consisting of the following foods:

At breakfast eat two oranges, or the juice of two oranges. Eat also two slices of toasted whole wheat or bran bread. Eat rolled oats (with milk, not cream).

At luncheon eat a good size piece you'll never notice it. Drink water or not as you like.

4 TO 7 POUNDS GONE IN WEEK

At the end of a week, you'll see the scale down four to seven pounds—according to how much overweight you are—from what you weighed the day you started. Your health, too, will be better. You'll be more active, more vigorous than perhaps for years. Your friends will soon begin to notice your increasing slenderness. You'll soon avoid the embarrassment of being called fat or bulky. And you'll do it with NEVER A HUNGRY MOMENT!

If in doubt about this safe and simple way, ASK ANY DOCTOR. Show him this article. Ask him whether or not it is safe and sure. It marks the latest findings of scientific men in the field of weight reduction. For it performs two necessary and important functions.

The JAD SALTS clear the bowels and system of the excessive toxins most overweight people have. The change in diet—the FILLING OF THE STOMACH TO ITS LIMIT—with foods that turn to energy instead of fat, decreases the weight day by day. The salts build up your health. The change in food eases off the fat.

Start to-day. Clip out this dietary and save it. Get big package of ordinary JAD SALTS for the cleansing part of the method at any drug store. A large bottle costs less than a dollar.

*Note: Particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE—

Heart of Liane

by MABEL MCELLIOTT

The sun shone through the rose-colored curtains. It touched the eastern rug with its splendor. Liane stretched, yawned, remembered. A smile curved her lips. Turning, she stared at the door which separated her room from Olive's. Always before it had stood closed. For the servants' benefit it had not been locked. Now it stood wide open.

The sound of splashing water came to her from the bathroom beyond. A young man sang in his tub. She called "Olive!" Even the sound of his name on her lips made her smile for sheer wonder. He did not hear so she slipped to the intervening door and closed it softly. In her own tiled sanctuary she showered herself briskly. She slipped into the briefest of silken things. The tube of white silk which she shrugged over her head was called a tennis dress. She contemplated herself with pleasure, innocent and artless. She was glad she was lovely for his sake.

When he came in, looking very young and tall and somehow shy she was brushing out her hair. It lay in a cloud around her shoulders. She stopped, confused, brush in hand.

"I—oh, I meant to be ready before you!"

The smile he gave her held a rare quality something of tenderness, something of worship.

He placed a note in her hand. Wonderingly Liane read in Tressa's bold script, "I give up. You're too rare for me. I suppose a sentimental would say this proves you were meant for each other. It's too late to say I'm sorry for what happened last night. I am, honestly. You were decent to me, saving my last penny as you did, and it was no way to repay, making a scene. Perhaps I'll not see you again. This is to say I wish you well."

Clive said, "She'd messed up her affairs and I straightened some of them out. I'm sorry for her. She was brought up to think money grew on hedges. Now she knows better."

Liane, in the curve of her arm, sighed a little. "I'm sorry for her, too. Sorry for anyone who isn't as happy as I am."

He asked, "Do you mean that?" and kissed her without waiting for an answer.

Together they went down to breakfast. The coffee was pure nectar that morning. No one had ever been so much in love before—they thought. Their talk was a melody of "when did you first begin to care?" and "why did you behave so at that time?" Tire-some talk for anyone except lovers.

"Must you go?" Liane pouted when at last the meal was ended. Clive said, "I must. There's a bit of business positively has to be settled this morning but I needn't leave you behind. You can drive in with me."

They sat gazing blissfully at each other, transfixed by the brilliancy of this idea. "You're not going to let me go, are you?" Liane asked, his lips against her hair.

"How soon can you be ready?" he asked as they drove.

"Whatever for?" Her hand locked in his. She was dreamily utterly content.

"To leave for that honeymoon of ours."

She gave him a rapt look. "To-day?"

"To-morrow, whenever you say."

He laughed at her. "What a wife! I shall boast of you. You didn't even say, 'I've nothing to wear.'"

"Ah, but I have. Frocks you've looked at but have never really seen."

He was delighted at her half-sen, half-bold coquetry. "You think I haven't seen them? I probably know every one down to the last bit of lace."

She said soberly after a bit, "There's something I've been wanting to ask you about. I hadn't dared, before."

Fearfully she asked, "What can it be?"

"About the estate. The Robard estate."

She stiffened as if at a distasteful subject. "That can't concern me."

"Ah, but it does. Winston Holbrick who is the executor knows the facts. You are the only logical claimant. It's not a fabulous amount but you have a right to it."

She said with set lips, "But suppose I don't want it? I don't want to touch a penny of my mother's money. It might have saved my own mother's life."

"Her eyes filled."

"I know," Clive argued. "But wouldn't it be a grand notion to accept it, settle it on Cass?"

She straightened. "It might. I hadn't thought of that."

Clive explained the procedure she would need to go through to make her claim. Several papers must be filled out. Her birth certificate, the marriage lines which were in Cass's hands.

"How much," she suddenly asked, "did you mean it was? Not a fabulous amount you said?"

"Cass," Clive remarked, "it's less than a million, I think."

She put her face into her hands and for a moment he thought she was weeping. When she lifted her hands again he saw she was shaken by hysterical laughter.

"I shall never, never get used to being rich," she said. "That sounds like a king's ransom to me."

When the car dropped him at the office in the canyons of lower New York he left her reluctantly. "I don't want to let you out of my sight," he explained, half in earnest. "I'm afraid you may vanish."

She flushed. "Never if I can help it," she assured him.

She promised to drive back for him at four o'clock. "May I tell mother about our inheritance? Is it as certain as that?"

"Of course."

She watched him out of sight. Four o'clock seemed worlds away.

Cass greeted her with open arms. "But how well you look! Isn't that another new dress?"

Liane flung off the woolly white coat to prove it wasn't. "I bought it in Florida. It's been washed half a dozen times."

"I like you in white," Cass observed in satisfaction. She was mending stockings. Liane picked up one with a sad run in it.

"Must you wear things like this?" she scolded. "How about that box of stockings I sent you for your birthday?"

Cass smiled shamefacedly. "You'll have to excuse me this time, miss. I gave most of 'em away. There's that nice little Allen girl in the company. She's sending money back home to her out. I hate to see her in holes."

Liane shook her head over this prodigality.

"These poor kids," Cass mourned. "They come here to battle the world and wear hand-me-downs and try to look like Park Avenue. I feel sorry for them all."

She was a speech Liane had heard often before. This day it struck her with a new force.

Calmly she inquired, "If you did have the money just what would you do with it?"

The older woman said, "I'd have a sort of boarding club for 'em, place that wouldn't struggle under the restrictions. A home-from-home, you know. Girl students of the theatre, the arts, secretaries—any nice girl who is trying hard to get along."

Liane said, "I'd have a fund to tide them over till they get work."

"It sounds wonderful!"

"It would be," Cass agreed. "If it worked out. But what's the use? It's just another of my day dreams."

"It needn't be."

Something in the girl's tone made Cass look up.

"What do you mean?"

"Cass says I'm to inherit some money from the Robard estate—"

Cass winced as if she had been struck. "Never! Don't touch their dirty money!"

Patiently the girl went on. "There's no one else. Van left no will but his father's will had some sort of clause providing for the claim of a possible heir. He wouldn't be so foolish as to refuse it if I turned it over to you for this work. It would be like a justification of everything and—" she pended to you to me, she had a memorial to Luisa. I was always too poor to do anything like that. I often wished I could give a window in for a while! This way this would do it for all time!"

When later Liane met Clive he had a sheaf of tickets in his hand. "We're going places," she asked lazily. Not that it really mattered. Wherever she was with Clive, that place would be home.

"France, Switzerland. Germany if you like. You didn't mind."

She curbed her fingers around his. "I'd even like a trip on a Coney Island boat."

What a child she was! He wanted to show her the far places of the earth. He wanted to put the world, a golden apple, in her two frail hands. "We're sailing Monday, then."

"I'll be ready. Let's not go home just yet," Liane pleaded. "Let's dine some place, on a roof maybe, where we can dance."

She was remembering that first night she had danced with him. She had been in his arms only in spirit. What was that tune the orchestra had played? "My sweet man I love you so. If I die where'll you be?"

She laughed aloud at the remembrance. And she, poor fool, had been dreaming of another man as she danced with this one! Where had been her eyes?

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Little Joke

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty were out in the woods, standing beneath a tree from which had fallen some big, round nuts, with sharp sticky prickles on the outside. Inside the prickly shell were three smooth, brown chestnuts, but at first Baby Bunty didn't know that.

Uncle Wiggily had been looking for a lost golf ball, but, giving it up, had gone to the woods adventuring, taking Bunty with him as I told you in the story before this. Baby Bunty saw a prickly, green chestnut burr lying on the ground and she called in delight to Mr. Longears:

"Here is your lost golf ball, but it's turned green and looks very funny, Uncle Wig!"

Then Uncle Wiggily told the little orphan rabbit how the smooth, brown chestnuts grew inside the green, prickly burr and how this burr must be cracked open with a stone. If one doesn't want to wait until Jack Frost bursts it open with his cold breath.

Mr. Longears was going to bash open the prickly chestnut burr to show Bunty the nuts nestled inside when, all of a sudden, there was a noise in the bushes and Bunty said some one was coming.

"I wonder who it is?" asked Uncle Wiggily, holding the stone in his paw ready to throw it—throw the stone, I mean.

"Maybe it's one of the bad chaps," suggested Bunty. "Oh, I hope not," said the little orphan rabbit.

"I hope not, myself," murmured Mr. Longears and he looked at the rustling, shaking bush to see what would come out of it. He was ready to take care of Bunty, who should happen to be the Fox, the Wolf or the Bob Cat.

But Uncle Wiggily had a pleasant surprise, and Bunty did, also, when out of the bushes jumped, not one of the Bad Chaps, but Johnnie and Billie Bunty, the squirrel boys.

"Hello, Johnnie and Billie!" called Bunty joyfully.

"Hello," chattered the squirrels. "Hello, Uncle Wiggily."

"Hello, boys," greeted the rabbit gentleman. "What are you doing out here?"

"We are looking for a chestnut nut," said Billie.

"But we can't find any," went on the brother. "I guess there are no more chestnut trees."

"Oh, I found one, didn't I, Uncle Wig?" exclaimed Bunty, jumping up and down in happiness.

"Did you, really?" asked Johnnie, hardly willing to believe this.

"Well," answered Mr. Longears, "Bunty found a green, prickly nut on the ground and as it had fallen off this tree I suppose you might say she also found the tree. It has many chestnuts on it!"

"Oh, so it has!" cried Billie. "Look at the chestnuts, Johnnie. I'm so glad Bunty found this, as now we can take some chestnuts home to Daddy and Mother."

"Yes, you squirrels are very fond of chestnuts," said Uncle Wiggily.

"But how can they carry them in their prickly burrs without getting their paws full of splinters?" asked Bunty, for she had gently touched the green ball on the ground and it had hurt her little paw.

"Oh, we won't take the nuts now," Johnnie said. "We'll wait until Jack Frost cracks open the prickly burr, and then the smooth, brown nuts will fall out and we can carry them without getting hurt."

"But while you are waiting for Jack Frost," said Bunty, "some one may come and take the nuts, even in their prickly burrs. I won't take them."

"Oh, I guess no one will take them," chattered Billie.

"That's where you're wrong!" suddenly shouted an impolite voice, and out of the bushes popped a big, black Bear, a most unpleasant ch. "I'll take these chestnuts!" growled the Bear. "And more than that, I'll take some nibbles off Uncle Wiggily."

"Oh, dear!" murmured Baby Bunty. And then to Uncle Wiggily she said: "Can't you do something to make the Bear go away?"

"Yes," whispered Mr. Longears. "I can play a little joke on him."

"I see do," begged Johnnie. "He might nibble us after he takes all the nice chestnuts."

"All right. Here's for the joke!" whispered Mr. Longears. Then to the Bear he said: "Look what is over your head!"

The Bear raised his head to look. He also raised his nose until it was pointing straight up—his soft and tender nose. Now right over the Bear's nose, hanging on the tree, was a big, prickly chestnut burr. Suddenly Uncle Wiggily threw a stone, hit the nut and down it fell, right on that Bear's nose. The prickles pricked him and the stickers stuck him and away he ran howling, yowling and scowling.

Then everything was O.K. and no one was nibbled. And if the letter A will stop standing on its head and trying to look like the letter V, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's tickle tree.

PALE, WHITE LIPS —AND UNDERWEIGHT

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) proved to be just what Mrs. Missalbrook needed.

"My aunt told me about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills three years ago," writes Mrs. Alvin Missalbrook, R.R. No. 3, Watford P.O., Ontario. "I was always troubled with weakness. I was very pale with no color in my lips and I was underweight."

"After taking the first box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was encouraged to go further. When I had taken them steadily for a month, I had gained my color back. I am well now and have gained in weight from 105 to 172. I frequently recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to my friends, as I have received so much benefit from them."

The scientific explanation of this astonishing result brought about by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) is no well known. The iron and other elements in the pills increase the amount of haemoglobin, oxygen-carrying agent in the blood. Supplied with more oxygen through the blood, the tissues of the body become revitalized. The result to you is well-being.

Gained 67 pounds.

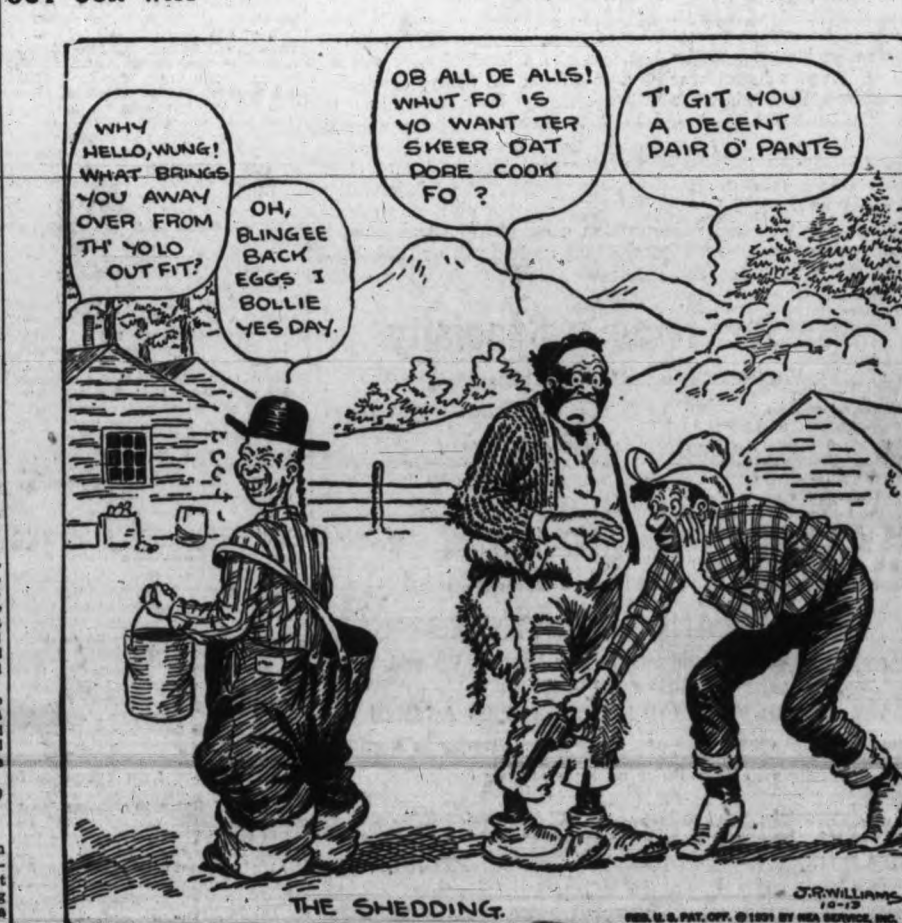

If you are weak and run-down, or if you suffer from rheumatism, sciatic nervousness or any ailment caused by poor blood, go to a druggist today and get a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Be sure to get 50 cents a package. Be sure to get "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills" so that the druggist will know exactly what you want.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Women Have Grown Better Looking, More Youthful and More Broadminded in the Last Thirty Years, and Though Their Sorrows Are Still as Great, They No Longer Wail About Them

HOW women have changed in the last thirty years. In their personal appearance, for one thing. In the old days a woman was pretty or homely, young or old, even as God ordained. If her good fairy was not around when pulchritude was handed out, she accepted her bad break with humbleness of spirit and did not attempt to do anything about it, but went through life with a lumpy figure or curly hair or a sallow complexion and was pitted and "poor Janed" to her dying day. Not so with the modern woman. If nature has been a niggardly step-mother to her and held out on her in the matter of good looks, she simply shrugs her shoulders and gets busy on her own account supplying the deficiencies.

She changes her shape at will and is slim and living-skeletonish or deliciously curved as she pleases. She makes roses bloom on sallow cheeks. She turns thin, straight lips into a cupid's bow. She is blonde or brunette or flame-haired, as she chooses, and puts a crisp into lanky locks that far exceeds any job in the permanent waving line that nature ever turned out.

More than that, the modern woman snaps her fingers in the face of time. Birthdays may come and go, but she stays a perfect thirty-eight for years and ears and defies anyone to disprove her alibi. Now probably there is no more beauty in the world that there has always been, but it is more diffused, for practically there are no more ugly women. By its grooming, by its taste in dress, the entire feminine sex has made itself easy on the eyes.

Go from one end of the land to the other and you will be struck by the fact that the women are all good looking and that they are all young. Grandmothers still look like flappers and act like them, for when the modern woman gets through rearing her family and marrying it off she doesn't retire to the chimney corner and fold her hands and wait for death as women used to do.

On the contrary she starts to live her own life and express her own individuality and do the things she has always wanted to do, but hadn't the time nor the money to do when she had her hands full of babies and helping her husband get a start in the world. So she belongs to clubs or goes in for parties or buys a ticket around the world and is sixty-five or seventy years young and still going strong.

What a change since grandmother's days when a woman was middle-aged at thirty and at forty was supposed to be done with all earthly vanities and ready to climb up on the shelf and spend the balance of her life contemplating her latter end.

Then consider how woman's point of view has changed in the last thirty years. As regards modesty, for one thing. One doesn't have to be more than middle-aged to recall the time when the proper attitude for a perfect lady was to be in a state of being perpetually shocked. Books had to be expurgated or her to read. Plays had to be censored for her to see. She was swathed from head to foot in clothes and if she so much as exposed her ankle in crossing the street she was regarded as a bold creature who was no better than a should be.

Nobody had legs. They merely possessed limbs and refined ladies didn't even mention them. Babel was considered an obscene topic of conversation. Even married women whispered behind their hands to each other when they referred cryptically to the advent of the stork and no mother would have been so lost to any sense of decency as to have discussed frankly with their daughters any of the problems of sex.

It is a far cry from the brand of modesty of that day when grandmother wailed in everything, to that of grand-daughter who sees harm in nothing, who doesn't understand why legs are not so respectable as arms; who considers that ignorance is not innocence and who doesn't see why, since God permits ratty things to happen in His world, she shouldn't know about them and scuse them.

Grandmother would have shrieked up and died with horror at the idea of mentioning children to her fiancé, but grand-daughter not only considers it modest, but honest, to thrash out the baby proposition with the man to whom she is engaged and gets his ideas on whether he expects to have a kitchenette or a canary bird menage or wants a real home with a yardful of kids.

Another great change, observable in women is in their morale. They are so much more cheerful than they used to be. They are so much better sports. A modern poet would write, as one did in grandmother's day, that "Men must work and women must weep, so runs the world away," for the modern woman is wiped her eyes and doesn't spend any more time shedding tears than a man does. In fact, it is just about as uncommon to see a woman cry as a man.

In grandmother's time melancholy was held to be a becoming expression for a woman to wear and it was thought to be a mark of distinction for one never to get over any grief or misfortune. All of us can recall gruesome ladies, smothered in crepes, who would come to spend the day and hold tear feasts with our grandmothers and whose only joy in life was opening up the doors of skeleton closets and rattling the bones of scandals and delving in the graves of their loved and lost.

Life doesn't change. God knows that women have as much to grieve over as they ever had in the past, but they meet the inevitable sorrows and appointments with more fortitude and philosophy than they formerly did. They no longer make a cult of grief. Telling their troubles has ceased to be their favorite indoor amusement and you can now know a woman for ten or without finding out that she has a secret sorrow.

There are other changes in women that we will further discuss.

Glimpses of Japan

4,200 ISLANDS
The outbreak of fighting last month between Japan and China must have brought sorrow to many persons in Japan. Letters which have received from Japanese men and children, in most every case, have been filled with words in favor of peace and brotherhood between the nations. I am sure that the common people of China and Japan would rather have peace than war.

Free Rides in Japan

Japan is made up of a vast number of islands—more than 4,200! These islands were formed thousands of years ago by volcanoes which broke under the ocean waves. Lava ashes poured out from the volcanoes and built up cones which at last reached above the surface. Thus the earthquakes and volcanic actions which take place so often in Japan are to be expected. The country was born from the action of volcanoes, and the time may come when the people will perish from the same cause. Probably the Japanese will desert their island homes before such destruction takes place. Long ago the people moved to the islands from the mainland of Asia. They are related to the Chinese.

The main island of Japan is Honshu (sometimes called "Hondo"). It has an area of more than 80,000 square miles, and a population of about 40,000,000. That is a little more than half the total population of Japan.

The islands of Japan, taken together, have an area greater than that of Germany.

There is a saying in Japan: "Two voices are here; one in the sea, one in the mountains, and each is a mighty voice." Mountains can be seen from almost any point on the larger islands of Japan.

About 200 volcanoes exist in Japan, and in the course of a year more than 1,400 earthquake shocks occur. Most of these shocks, however, are not felt, but are simply recorded by "seismographs." Now and then comes a terrible shock which snuffs out the lives of many persons.

The customs of the people seem to be of never-ending interest to those who live on this side of the Pacific. In many respects the Japanese have ways exactly opposite to ours. For example, people wear black as mourning over here, but in Japan the color of mourning is white.

There are few baby carriages in Japan. Japanese infants are slung over the backs of their mothers or nurse-maids, reminding us of the old Indian papoose custom.

"OUR WIVES" GOOD COMEDY

G. Donald Gray Players Popular at the Playhouse in Amusing Vehicle

"Our Wives," a farce of marital misunderstandings, opened yesterday afternoon at the Playhouse in a full audience. Though full of riotous comedy scenes, "Our Wives" also contains a serious thread of philosophy concerning matrimony. A group of four bachelors is broken up, where three of them fall in love, almost at the same time, and marry the girls with neatness and dispatch. The last one of the group, an opera singer, goes out with his work, but in collaboration with a woman, the wife they attempt to eliminate the element of personal audience. A number of weeks later the three men who married bring their wives to their friends' apartment for a reunion—and a good time is had by the audience watching the wives putting their husbands (formerly strong men and true) through their paces.
"Mollycoddles," the remaining bachelor calls them, but he and he too succumbs to the charms of "Wilson," none other than his collaborator in composition. As "Wilson" Mary Moe gives a winning performance and looks lovely G. Donald Gray opposite her in the part of "Fate" is excellent. His interpolation of the song "Mandala," in the second act was well received, the audience calling for an encore. The trio of bachelors who marry early in the play were played by Basil Osborn (Corky), Verne Layton (Spider) and Louis Eley (Rat). The wives were played by Ruth Albright, Gladys Virginia and Betty Kent. "Otto," who presides over the bachelor's apartment with discretion, until he is finally "copped" by the cook, is amusingly rendered by Francis Bayles. "Our Wives" is running all week at the Playhouse.

CONCERT GROUP TO PLAY HERE

Scottish Concert Company Will Present Unusual Programme at Shrine Nov. 2

On Monday evening, November 2, the Scottish Concert Company, a quartette of entertainers well known in Great Britain and America, will offer a programme of music, folk songs, dances, interspersed with rare comedy, in the Shrine Auditorium.
This famous group of artists consists of Miss Mary McMahon, dramatic soprano, and most famous of all Scottish sopranos in the United States. Miss McMahon starred with Sir Harry Lauder in his New York City engagement in the Knickerbocker Theatre.
Miss Louise Graham, winner of hundreds of prizes for her Highland dancing, a most attractive figure, and in many of her dancing contests as in "The Sailor's Hornpipe," has never yet been defeated. Miss Doris Kimball, pianist and accompanist, who knits the whole programme into ensemble excellence; and Alec Kelvin, a born Scott, and one of the best-known Scottish comedians.

Dr. Alexander To Give His Famous Lecture On "Love"

Dr. W. G. Alexander, who has been delighting large audiences during the last week at the Chamber of Commerce, gives his popular lecture on Wednesday evening on the subject of "Love, Courtship, Marriage and Jealousy." This lecture has attracted packed houses at the Chamber of Commerce and from Fort Worth to Winnipeg. In this lecture, he explains the signs of love in head and face; how to tell a fresh or jealous person; what temperaments should and should not mate, and how to manage the mother-in-law. At the close couples will be matched or unmatched.
The press notices of his lecture have been lengthy and the comments flattering. There will no doubt be a fine crowd to-morrow evening.

DOMINION THEATRE

Overflow audiences greeted all performances of the Fox romance, "Merely Mary Ann," opening yesterday at the Dominion Theatre, and if enthusiasm is any criterion, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell have scored the hits of their careers—greater even than their famous "Seventh Heaven."—In this delightful version of Israel Zangwill's Cinderella-like story, directed by Henry King.
Never has the fragile little Janet touched the deepest springs of emotion with such sure and simple skill. Farrell gives his best rendition since talking picture. Beryl Mercer, who heads the supporting cast, is excellent.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Laughs will be plentiful at the Columbia Theatre to-day when Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, favorite film comedy team, are seen in their latest production, "Half Shot at Sunrise." The show, a war-time comedy, is said to be one of the most amusing features of the year.
Wheeler and Woolsey, comedy stars of "Rio Rita," "The Cuckoo," and "Dixiana," are supported by an unusually clever cast including Dorothy Lee, Hugh Trevor, Roberta Robinson and Loni Stengel.

COLISEUM THEATRE

Jack Holt, who plays the role of a diver who loves as hard as he fights in "Fifty Fathoms Deep," the Columbia picture at the Coliseum Theatre, is the son of an Episcopal minister and his first role in pictures was as a stunt rider. He's been cowpuncher, fighter, civil engineer, mining prospector and government mail-carrier in Alaska.

MIMES' GUILD WILL PRESENT PLAY SHORTLY

Season's Programme Announced; First Play Next Month to Be "And So to Bed"

The Mimes and Masquers Guild has announced its programme for the coming season and supporters of the Little Theatre movement in Victoria, as well as all other drama lovers, will be interested in knowing of the new plays.

First on the list is "And so to Bed," to be presented on November 6 and 7.
This delightful comedy, by J. B. Pagan, first appeared in London only a few years ago and is based on the famous diary of Samuel Pepys. The quaint atmosphere and the careful wit of the diary are admirably reflected in the play and Victorians who have long loved to read of the escapades of Pepys, should welcome the opportunity of seeing him on the stage.
In January the guild will present a group of the popular one-act plays which are always associated with the work of the Little Theatre. There will be three in the group, a fantasy,
"Maitland"; a melodrama, "The House With the Twisted Windows," and a humorous farce, "The Pot-Boilers."

The third production, in March, will be Capek's fantasy, "R. U. R.," the social satire done after the modern manner which made such a sensation when produced not long ago by the New York Theatre Guild. This unusual and thought-provoking play has quickly become a favorite play for Little Theatre audiences. Like "And so to Bed," it is one of the outstanding newer plays which has not appeared in Victoria, either on stage or screen.

All productions will be given at the Shrine Auditorium where alterations will be made to permit of more comfortable seating arrangements for stage productions.

Descriptive literature and membership invitations may be secured from members of the guild, or from A.
Fraser Lester, 1114 Fairfield Road, who is in charge of membership arrangements. Associate membership fees have been reduced this year and include admission to all public performances, and the usual privileges for private functions in addition.

CAPITOL THEATRE

"Five Star Final," the first National melodrama of modern newspaper life, starring E. Robinson, and showing at the Capitol Theatre to-day, was two weeks in actual filming—two strenuous weeks as the picture will prove. During the fortnight the star gained four pounds while Mervyn Le Roy, the director, lost eight. During the filming of "Little Caesar" the same star gained and the same director lost.
Robinson's support in "Five Star Final" includes Marian Marsh—screaming discovery of the year—H. B. Warner, Anthony Bushell and many other favorites. Mr. Robinson does his finest work in "Five Star Final," which is based on Louis Weitzenkorn's big Broadway hit.

COMING TO CAPITOL

Scenes of London social life and of the lovely English countryside, glimpses of planes over the Channel and panoramic views of a ship launching in a Glasgow shipyard, are some of the intriguing sequences in Para-mount's British production, "These Charming People," starring Cyril Maude, which comes to the Capitol Theatre on Thursday. Here is a Michael Arlen play intact, with all its finesse and brilliant wit enhanced by perfect technicality and flawless setting. With Cyril Maude, Nora Swinburne and Godfrey Tearle, it is carried through by an all-star cast. The picture carries the audience into the atmosphere of English society life, where a wife admits defeat to a business that engulfs her husband.
